DEMOCRATIC BATTALIONS LINING UP IN CHICAGO

Pestilence Menace In West Mexico Earthquake Area

Outside Aid Needed at Once, Says Governor of State of Colima, Reporting Approximately 100 Killed By Great Tidal Wave Yesterday

Colima, State of Colima, Mexico, June 23.—Governor Salvador Saucedo of the State of Colima informed the Associated Press to-day that perhaps 100 lost their lives in yesterday's tidal wave, and great danger of pestilence would follow unless outside aid came immediately.

Mexico City, June 23.—Mexican relief agencies were concentrated to-day on the task of alleviating the suffering of thousands of people in towns along the west coast, which were virtually wiped out yesterday by a tidal wave that took an unknown toll of lives.

The city of Colima reported the known number of injured there was sixty-two.

Governor Salvador Saucedo of the State of Colima said the death toll at Cuytlan, resort town, had passed forty, with others missing and more than 100 injured.

The governor reported the tidal wave had swept inland for more than a mile over an eighteen-mile front, leveling everything in its path.

CAUGHT ON BEACH

Two brief and minor earthquakes preceded the heavy tremor, which at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning ushered in the wave and served to rouse the inhabitants, many of whom fled to the beach for safety.

The tidal wave followed, trapping them, sweeping many inland to death or outward into the sea to drown.

June, 1932, is likely to go down as one of the worst in Mexico's history of disastrous natural phenomena. Two major earthquakes already have shaken the country this month. A dozen cities have been damaged by cyclones, besides the effect of yesterday's tidal wave.

Every dwelling in Cuytlan was destroyed, with only a few business buildings left standing.

Earth shocks continued throughout yesterday, reports indicated. The epicenter of the quake was believed to have been in the Pacific, about 200 miles southwest of Colima.

The railroad tracks between Colima City and Manzanillo, which had just been repaired Tuesday evening after they had been damaged in recent earthquakes, again were destroyed, the third time in a week.

Fourteen earth shocks, four of them strong enough to be felt by the inhabitants of Mexico City, were registered here during the first eight hours yesterday.

Newspapers of Mexico City to-day were starting subscriptions for relief and rehabilitation work.

MANZANILLO DAMAGED

Manzanillo, the largest city struck by the tidal wave, reported heavy damage, but no dead.

The injured were sent to the city of Colima as rapidly as possible, but the mayor said lack of federal soldiers and panic among the people were making it impossible to organize relief work efficiently.

California Star Shatters Par With 69 in First Round of United States Open

Leo Diegel Second With 73; Gene Sarazen Has 74 and Billy Burke 75

Canadian Press
Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, N.Y., June 23.—Olin Dutra, younger of two Spanish brothers from Los Angeles, shot a sensational 69, one under par, to-day for the lead in the first round of the United States open golf championship.

The husky Californian negotiated the last nine holes in 33, two under par, after dropping a single stroke to perfect figures with an outward 36. He narrowly missed putts for birdies on the sixteenth and eighteenth, after having beautiful approaches to the greens.

Dutra replaced Leo Diegel as the early pace-setter. Diegel led the early finishers with a 73.

It was the first successful attack of the tournament on old man par and established the far western entry as an unexpected contender.

FINE DISPLAY

Dutra gave a brilliant shot-making exhibition in mastering the difficulties of Fresh Meadow, especially on the last nine, where a number of favorites had cracked, including Macdonald Smith, George Von Elm and Denmore Shute.

Dutra's score gave him a five-stroke advantage over Gene Sarazen, the British open champion, and Joe

RIOT THREAT IN BERLIN

Berlin, June 23.—Communists threw barricades across the streets in the northwest section of this city to-day and ripped up the paving to prevent police from interfering with a forbidden open-air demonstration to be held this evening.

All the mounted police were ordered into the section in anticipation of trouble.

AUSTRIA CEASES TO PAY DEBTS

Associated Press
Lausanne, June 23.—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus of Austria announced this evening his government had declared a moratorium on all external debts because it had been impossible to negotiate a loan.

The injured were sent to the city of Colima as rapidly as possible, but the mayor said lack of federal soldiers and panic among the people were making it impossible to organize relief work efficiently.

Suggestion of Germans Laid Before French Leaders at Lausanne Reparations Conference To-day

By George Hambleton
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Lausanne, June 23.—Things are advancing in the Franco-British conversations on reparations were suspended early this evening to permit a hurried consultation between Premier Edouard Herriot and the German delegation.

Throughout the day Premier Herriot and Premier MacDonald of Britain, with cabinet colleagues on either side, had discussed the question of Germany's ultimate capacity to pay reparations. It was conceded she cannot pay at present, but the French declined to admit she could not resume payments in the future.

USEFUL SUGGESTIONS

When the Anglo-French talks were adjourned, an official communique declared they had been continued "in a useful and friendly way." In British circles this was described as a "good augury" for the reparations conference, and Premier Herriot hurried off to talk to the Germans.

During his talk with Premier Herriot, Premier MacDonald had with him Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade. Premier Herriot was accompanied by M. Germain-Martin, French Finance Minister.

SAANICH NATIVE PASSES TO-DAY

M. J. Phillips, Born There in 1868, Dies in New Westminster

Canadian Press
New Westminster, June 23.—M. J. Phillips, a member of the New Westminster Police Commission since 1922, died at his home on Agnes Street, this morning following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Phillips was born in Saanich, Vancouver Island, in 1868, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips, having come from England in 1860, attracted by the gold rush to the Cariboo.

From 1874 to 1878 Mr. Phillips lived in Victoria, afterward coming to the mainland. Entering the commercial field, Mr. Phillips was associated with his brother, J. E. Phillips, for many years in the clothing and men's wear business. The latter died in 1907.

Mr. Phillips succeeded him as head of the business. Since that time he had operated it continuously under his own name.

When Chileans Ducked Bullets As Revolt Flared

Hurling themselves on the ground to escape a stream of machine-gun fire the armed civilians and soldiers pictured above were caught by an adventurous camera man during a clash around a gasoline station in Santiago in one of the riots which accompanied the government's overthrow. First Carlos Davila headed the socialist junta that was set up. Soon he was ousted and Col. Marmaduke Grove, left, a Chilean of Irish descent, made himself head. In a couple of days Grove's Communist group was thrown out and Davila was reinstated. Davila at last reports was still heading the junta and Grove was in prison on an island.

Tour Party Arrives From Great Britain For Three-day Visit

Acting-Premier Hinchliffe Extends Welcome on Behalf of the Province

Official Government Dinner Will Inaugurate Entertainment For Visitors

Victoria, with characteristic cordiality, to-day welcomed the British tour party which, conducted by William A. McAdam, secretary to the Agent-General for B.C. in London, is getting a first-hand insight of the possibilities of British Columbia.

The party reached the city by the afternoon boat to-day from Vancouver, and immediately hurried into the round of entertainment which has been arranged in its honor. The members of the party are drawn from all parts of the British Isles. The tour was arranged by the provincial government to show this representative group of British visitors the industrial, commercial, scenic and residential advantages of the province.

FIRST TOUR OF KIND

It is the first tour of its kind yet brought to Canada, and other provinces are preparing to follow the example of British Columbia.

Great interest was displayed in Great Britain with the departure of the party for Canada. They were the honored guests of F. P. Burden, Agent-General for British Columbia, at an Empire Day luncheon in London.

Monkey Tree Climbed And Officer "Pays Up"

"Human Fly" Who Climbed Up Parliament Dome Collects His Bet

Boy Thinks Over Policeman's Proposition and To-day Ascended Spiked Tree

Provincially police discovered yesterday afternoon that Victoria has a "human fly" and to the surprise of one of the officers the climber took a fifty-cent wager from him this morning as a result. This "human fly" climbed a monkey puzzle tree.

With four other boys, Gordon Laird, the "human fly," yesterday outraged the glorious dome of the Parliament Buildings by climbing up to the top to trap pigeons. Laird, who was the most adventurous, captured seven of the birds which nest around the glistening statue of Captain Vancouver by the simple expedient of taking them from the nests.

CROWD GATHERS

A breathless crowd watched the youths as they climbed around the corners and over the roof of the dome while police ordered them to come down. They were turned over to Inspector John T. Boulton of the city.

New York, June 23.—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, to-day cut its rediscount rate to 2½ per cent from 3 per cent.

REGISTRATION IS SUSPENDED

City Notified to Halt Relief Applications at End of This Month

The first echo of the government's economy relief programme was heard at the City Hall this morning when a notice was received ordering the suspension of registration for relief after June 30.

The advice, coming from the chairman of the executive council on unemployment relief, gives no explanation, but merely sets out that registration must be suspended at the end of the month until further notice.

While this is the only official notice of the government's economy intentions received by the city, the relief committee of the council has taken immediate steps to discover to what extent Victoria will be affected by the cuts. At a meeting of the committee it was decided to ask the government for full information on the relief reduction plans so that the city can cut its cloth accordingly.

Much Manoeuvring Seen As Delegates Gather and Five Out For Presidency

BEER VOTE TO-MORROW

Esquimalt Residents to Go to Polls on Question of Sale By the Glass

Fifty-five Per Cent Required to Put Municipality in "Dry" Class

Esquimalt will decide the wet or dry question as far as beer by the glass is concerned, to-morrow. Preparations were made by Returning Officer J. R. Collier to-day for a heavy vote, which will be watched with interest throughout the province.

In order for the "drys" to oust beer parlors from the district they must secure fifty-five per cent of the votes cast. There are 2,440 names on the list, Mr. Collier stated, and a turnout of more than 70 per cent is anticipated.

Voting will take place in one centre, the old Sailors' Club building, at the corner of Esquimalt and Admiral's Roads. The polls will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning to 8 o'clock in the evening. The counting will finish about 9:30 o'clock, Mr. Collier said.

Since it is the first time in British Columbia that a "wet" municipality has had the chance to vote on the beer-by-the-glass issue, the poll has created considerable interest all over the province. Provision for such a vote was made at the last session of the Legislature.

In 1924, when Esquimalt went "wet" on the beer question, the vote was 665 for and 550 against. The narrow margin on that occasion has resulted in a spirited fight by the opponents of beer parlors who signed the petition which prompted the poll.

Which ever the vote goes, it will decide the question for three years at least. A recent order-in-council provides another vote being taken before that time has elapsed.

Liquor Board officials expressed uncertainty to-day regarding the result of the vote, which would be given the parlors to close up if the vote goes against them, although it was stated that "undoubtedly steps would be taken immediately to meet the wishes of the electorate."

SEARCH FOR FLIERS FAILS

Wreckage of an airplane picked up near Cape Norman is believed to be the machine in which Arthur I. Sullivan, Newfoundland air mail pilot, disappeared over the northern part of the island some weeks ago. An extensive search was made for Sullivan and his companion, Dr. Karl Kuehnert, but without success.

The wreckage is being forwarded to St. John's for examination.

The picture of Dr. Karl Kuehnert above, was one of the last he had taken. He was a dentist, twenty-eight years of age, serving with the Grenfell Mission at St. Anthony Newfoundland.

Roosevelt's Lieutenants Study Situation and Smith Says He Will Win Democratic Presidential Nomination Next Week If at All Possible

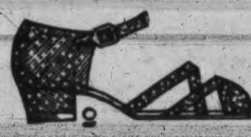

Chicago, June 23.—A new voice was raised against the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt to-day as the forces of the New York Governor took charge of the resolutions committee preparing for the Democratic National Convention and sought to make economic issues instead of prohibition the dominant campaign theme.

While an ear was turned toward Tammany to learn to what candidate the bulk of New York votes would be thrown, two more presidential candidates came to town—Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma and former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. Mr. Murray said the presidential nominee would not be Roosevelt.

SEVERAL BALLOTS FORESEEN

A little later, Alfred E. Smith, vigorous campaigner of 1928, told newspapermen he did not believe a candidate would be named on the first ballot. He is one of the strongest opponents of Governor Roosevelt.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Roosevelt-picked chairman of the resolutions committee, said as he opened his first session that the prohibition issue should be met, but that the platform should emphasize economic issues.

piece of powder and the tin of grease, and the father had received it on his ranch, he had allowed the two boys off on suspended sentence, as they were capable of running the ranch while the father served the sentence for all. The magistrate stated he considered under this arrangement it would be "no hardship" for Clarkson to serve the term in jail.

It came out that Clarkson is the father of ten children, that it was the first time he had been in trouble, and that the can of grease and the dynamite which the sons had picked up on the property of the Consolidated Smelters was worth less than $20 all told. He was ignorant of all court procedure and was without funds to pay lawyers. "You don't look like a criminal," said Chief Justice Macdonald.

"What was this court constituted for but to rectify such mistakes of the courts below," said Mr. Justice Macdonald.

Following Mr. Mayers' appeal all the judges agreed to cut down to six months the sentence of the man whom at the previous session the majority of the court had ordered back to jail to serve twenty-three months. Clarkson is being taken to the mainland, not realizing who the distinguished counsel was who had stepped in and saved him, and he will not even get a bill from Mr. Mayers.

Dutra's lawyer already served practically all of his sentence.

TOLMIE IS IN OTTAWA TO-DAY

Premier and B.C. Lumbermen
Seeing Members of Federal Government

Proposals For Empire Economic Conference Are Under Discussion

Ottawa, June 23.—Premier Tolmie of British Columbia, with a delegation of prominent lumbermen from the Pacific Coast province, arrived in Ottawa to-day to see members of the Dominion Government.

Dr. Tolmie said the delegation proposed to make representations bearing on the coming Imperial Economic Conference, and to discuss other matters of interest to the lumber industry in British Columbia. He had some other matters to take up with the federal authorities and was seeing members of the cabinet.

As Premier Bennett was out of town, it was said to be possible the delegation would await his return to-morrow to appear before the government. No definite appointment for the discussion had been made.

PRINCE'S BEST WISHES
The Prince of Wales gave them a rousing send-off, and made them the bearers of his best wishes to the people of British Columbia. The mountain and coast itinerary of the party's tour started at Banff on June 10, and has since included visits to Lake Louise, Lake Windermere, Nelson, Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon, Salmon Arm, Vancouver and New Westminster.

MEET BY ACTING PREMIER
Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education and Acting Premier, met the party on its arrival here this afternoon and extended an official welcome on behalf of the province.

After registering at the Empress Hotel, which will be the headquarters of the party during its stay in the city, the visitors went to Government House, where they were entertained at tea by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. J. W. Forth.

DINNER TO-NIGHT
The British Columbia Government will give an official dinner at the Empress Hotel at 7:45 o'clock this evening.

Members of the provincial cabinet attending the dinner will include Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe and Mrs. Hinchliffe, Hon. S. L. Howe and Mrs. Howe, Hon. J. Jones and Mrs. Jones and Hon. A. McKenna.

Plan Advanced By France and Japan While Hoover's One-third Armaments Cut

Associated Press
Washington, June 23.—Insistence by the French Government on a security pact, reported in press dispatches from Geneva concerning President Hoover's arms slash plan, brought the assertion to-day in high governmental quarters that the United States under no conditions would consider entering such an agreement.

Canadian Press
Geneva, June 23.—The British-French disarmament conference here to-day considered the French suggestion for reducing arms by cutting budget expenditures.

They avoided for the time being discussion of President Hoover's sweeping plan for a one-third reduction in the armaments of the world, which the United States estimated would save from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in the next ten years.

The United States plan has initially secured a measure of approval from Britain, Germany, Russia and Italy, but has been under considerable attack from France and reports to-day from Tokyo were the Japanese Government, like France, would insist on security first.

Detailed discussion of the United States proposal, however, will be taken up at later meetings of the general disarmament commission, held in camera.

POSITION OF BRITAIN
Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, at yesterday's session greeted President Hoover's one-third cut proposal with the words that "any reasonable proposal whereby the vast toll of men under arms throughout the world can be reduced in any way which does not diminish the security of any country is welcome."

"I say boldly, on behalf of the United Kingdom," he stated, "that in some respects we want more disarmament than there appears. We have made no secret of the fact that we want submarines entirely abolished, and indeed, we have hitherto understood that in this respect we have the support of the United States delegation."

"But if submarines cannot be abolished, continued Sir John, 'and the view expressed by the French delegation provides an element of defence in home waters, then let us at least limit their size to 250 tons. Again, since the proposal now submitted has been mentioned to-day, the United Kingdom delegation desires to point out that as they understand them, the proposals are not incompatible with provision for reducing their monstrous size.'"

It was explained the Hoover proposal is for a cut of one-third in the armaments of all nations. A formal resolution characterized the Hoover plan as a substantial step toward total disarmament.

TORONTO PRIEST DUBLIN SPEAKER

Rev. M. Cline Addresses Big Gathering at Eucharistic Congress

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian
Press Staff Writer
Dublin, June 23.—Under the chairmanship of Rt. Rev. J. T. McCall, Bishop of Hamilton, Ont., Canadian priests and priests here for the Eucharistic Congress, to-day held the first of their two sectional meetings.

The principal address was delivered by Rev. M. Cline of Toronto. Father Cline traced the development of Irish Catholicism and its effect on the rest of the world, through Irish migration to America.

A pontifical high mass celebrated by Most Rev. T. O'Connell, Archbishop of Halifax, formerly Bishop of Victoria, B.C., preceded the Canadian meeting.

"It is easy to understand," said Father Cline, "why the Irish Catholics at home and abroad are the foremost church in the world. The stream of Irish migration to the United States and to the sister Dominions has had a moral influence on those countries as beneficial as any ocean current."

NOT BLIGHTED
Though the faith of Ireland was Roman by heritage and had been brought to the centuries under the oversight of St. Peter, it could not be called Irish. It was a priest and said, "Irish Catholicity has its own distinct flavor, yet it is never national," he said. "Nationalism was never permitted to blight the verdant stock of Catholicity."

"It is true that in the days when Catholics had neither rights nor privileges of citizenship, Irish may have been called to face toward the gateway of revolution and bloodshed, and may to some extent have blighted her escutcheon."

MANY MESSAGES SENT TO PRINCE

This Was Thirty-eighth Birthday of Prince of Wales

Associated Press
London, June 23.—The Prince of Wales celebrated his thirty-eighth birthday to-day.

In contrast with recent birthdays, when his heavy schedule of work and engagements was followed as usual, he decided to take a day off to-day.

The only task he assigned himself was to read, as usual, the thousands of congratulatory messages that poured in on him from all corners of the world.

It was a busy year he left behind him when he awoke this morning to realize he was thirty-eight.

HAUSNER SAW SIXTEEN SHIPS

Flier Rescued in Atlantic
Tells at Miami How He Saw
Vessels Pass

Associated Press
Miami, Fla., June 23.—Sixteen ships came within sight of Stanley Felix Hausner as he floated for eight days on his fallen plane after his ill-fated ocean flight, but none saw him until the tanker Circe Shell came by. This was disclosed to-day.

He landed from the Circe Shell here yesterday and was the object of a rousing reception.

Recovering from the effects of going with little water from June 4 till June 11, he told in detail to-day of his flight and the lonely days of floating on the plane.

"My engine developed trouble about 9 a.m. on the morning of June 4, he said. 'I don't know yet what the cause was but it gave me trouble for more than an hour and slowed me up. Finally I decided to come down.'"

He alighted on the waves without difficulty and started to drift. It was raining and cold. He had little food and little water.

"During the eight days I drifted I saw sixteen ships, but apparently none of them sighted me," he said.

He had about given up hope when he saw the Circe Shell as dusk started to settle on the eighth day.

"I did not think the ship had spotted me, but then I saw it veer from its course and a boat was lowered. I was exhausted when I was finally taken off the plane."

Hausner denied himself to the public to-day, but expected to appear with his wife at a public banquet in their honor this evening.

It was while attempting a flight from New York to Warsaw, Poland, he got into trouble. He was picked up about 500 miles west of the coast of Portugal.

URGENT GERMAN-FRENCH Military Alliance

Germany had asked for immediate suspension of the reparations payments for several reasons, the chief of which was the drain of unemployment on her resources. The experts have emphasized her inability to increase internal taxes, German leaders at the reparations conference arguing that if the country has to resume debt payments, the economic position will be affected for years to come.

To these arguments the French replied they would be willing to suspend reparations payments over a period of years. There was, therefore, France submitted, no question of adding to the tax burden of the German people. But Premier Herriot declined to wipe out Germany's ultimate liability.

Britain would clean the whole slate. At any rate the British and French are agreed a plan for the resumption of German payments after a period of years—if such a plan is adopted—must be such as will not disturb Germany's normal trade relations.

force, who firmly informed them that climbing about the dome of the Parliament Buildings was not the thing to do, even if the pigeons were a nuisance.

Young Laird was the most daring of the quintette and he frankly amazed that anyone was concerned for his safety.

"There were a million people down below but I wasn't worried. Gee, I could climb anywhere," he said.

Laird quite solemnly informed one of the provincial officers that, he could climb higher than any policeman, and he was not prompted by the officer to make a bet with him.

"I've got fifty cents—if you can climb what I show you," the officer said.

"O.K.," said the boy. "Lead me to it."

The officer showed him a spiked monkey tree.

After considering the matter over night Laird went back to the provincial police office this morning, climbed the monkey tree and claimed the half-dollar.

It does not seem strange, therefore, that the youth should have been nicknamed by his playmates "Monkey" Laird. He is about sixteen years of age and of small, wiry build.

To-day Chancellor von Papen privately proposed a military alliance between France and Germany as a means of settling the reparations, the assertion that Germany cannot pay at present, and a declaration that if it should be decided Germany must pay something later on, then the amount to be paid must not interfere with Germany's economic recovery, and must not upset world business.

NEW GOLD RUSH

Prospectors Advised to Take Adequate Food Into Naku Area of Alaska

Associated Press
Seward, Alaska, June 23.—Fearing discovery of rich gold ore in the Naku district, west of here, would start unemployed on a northward trek, Thomas Babcock, who made the strike, warned men to-day against going into the district unless they have "sufficient food to carry them through the winter."

Free gold ore estimated to run $50,000 a ton was found in a deep tunnel of the Babcock and Downie mine by Babcock. Rich specimens of float were reported discovered by Charlie Boyne.

R. L. Bernard, backed by Juneau business men to make a flight into the Liard River district of the Yukon Territory in search of reported high placer fields, has returned to Juneau. He said they had been unable to get air transportation beyond Carcross, Y.T., as the planes were all engaged. A Detroit aerial expedition headed by Mitchell, he said, was at Atlin, B.C., keeping its plans secret.

Fewer Candles
In Rome Churches

Canadian Press
Rome, June 23.—Burning of candles before statues and sacred images in Catholic churches has been forbidden in the Diocese of Rome as "tending to give the appearance of superstition."

Issued by the vicar general of Pope Pius XI, the order says candles do not contribute to the cleanliness or neatness of churches and the simultaneous burning of many tapers often smokes the walls and vitates the atmosphere. Photographing of sacred functions and the use of artificial flowers in decorations are also banned by the order.

MEXICO DROUGHT
CAUSES LOSSES

Associated Press
Mexico City, June 23.—Chambers of commerce reported to the president to-day that Mexico probably will harvest exceedingly poor crops this year on account of continued heat and drought. The rainy season now is more than a month overdue in the valley of Mexico, and early crops are reported ruined. Thousands of cattle have died or thirst.

BORDER RULE IS RESTORED

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 23.—A United States Immigration Department order which recently made some difficulty at the border for United States residents returning from visits to Canada has been amended to effect reversion to former procedure, according to W. H. Shearer, inspector in charge of the Vancouver district.

The order, which resulted in a number of visitors being held up at the border on their return journey May 24, applied to persons exempt from the quota who entered the United States between June 3, 1921, and June 30, 1924, as visitors, but who remained permanently and paid head tax.

The new order provides that such persons who paid the head tax shall be regarded as having been admitted for permanent residence. The change restores the practice in effect prior to March 2, 1922.

"Regulations provide that alien heretofore legally admitted to the United States for residence will not be required to present consular documents nor to pay head tax when returning to an unexpired domicile in the United States from visits to Canada, not to exceed six months' duration, but admissibility under the existing immigration laws must always be established," said Inspector Shearer.

TESTING USE OF
NEW HORMONE

By HOWARD E. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Syracuse, N.Y., June 23.—Goats with synthetic nervous breakdowns are finding relief in a new hormone intended for strictly human use. The discovery was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here to-day.

Goats which eat transparent wrapping paper in place of hay were exhibited in the flesh. Specimens of perfect health without even goat nerves, they illustrated a different discovery, promising better foods for man.

Dr. Frank A. Hartman of the University of Buffalo reported the nerve tonic.

The remedy was cortin, a hormone secreted by the adrenal glands of men and animals. This hormone recently saved the lives of several persons dying from Addison's disease.

The animals, so nervous their bodies trembled, were quieted quickly by small injections of cortin. The relief lasted four or five days, it was stated. After that the hormone became less effective.

The experiment offers a method of identifying the weak spot where nervous breakdowns take their origin.

Man Ended Life
At Biggar, Sask.

Biggar, Sask., June 23.—The body of an unidentified man was found near the C.N.R. tracks yesterday with a revolver by its side. It is believed he shot himself.

The stranger came to Biggar Tuesday and registered at a hotel under the name of "D. C. Higgins, Saskatoon."

He appeared to be well-to-do and was well dressed. In a pocket was a leather case containing black horn-rimmed glasses and a bank book from a Montana bank. There had been a name in his hat which had been obliterated apparently to avoid identification.

OUR VISITORS

VICTORIA IS WELCOMING TO-DAY A party of visitors from Great Britain who have come out to see what British Columbia is like and what the province has to offer the prospective investor and settler. They are under the very able guidance of Mr. W. A. McAdam, secretary of the Agent-General's office in London, by which the tour was organized. The members of the party, therefore, may be described as "paying guests" of the provincial government. We hope that what they have already seen on the Mainland has given them pleasure, and they may be sure Vancouver Island will not disappoint them. When they get back home and have an opportunity of sorting out their impressions at leisure it is probable some of them will want to pay a return visit. They will be just as welcome then as they are now.

It is fortunate that Mr. McAdam was available to act as guide, philosopher and friend to the party. For well over a decade he has been associated with British Columbia House in his present capacity. He has served under three Agents-General—Mr. F. C. Wade, K.C., who died in 1924; Mr. F. A. Pauline, who recently retired; and now under Mr. F. P. Burden. In that period he has come into contact with thousands of citizens of Great Britain and of continental Europe who have either called at British Columbia House or have corresponded with it in their quest for information about this province. Upon Mr. McAdam has devolved much of the responsibility for providing it. Following the death of Mr. Wade, the whole of the duties of the office, as acting Agent-General, fell upon his shoulders until Mr. Pauline reached London; similarly in the interim between Mr. Pauline's retirement and the succession of Mr. Burden.

Mr. McAdam naturally feels quite at home with his charges on this tour, since he has an intimate understanding of the Old World point of view, while the many years he spent in British Columbia gave him the requisite knowledge of provincial conditions under all heads. Our visitors, therefore, are in most capable hands and will not be permitted to miss anything of interest.

The government is to be commended for arranging this tour, which, it is hoped, will forge new ties between this province and Great Britain—and also upon its selection of Mr. McAdam to direct it.

DREAMS OF YOUTH

EVERY YEAR, IN MAY AND JUNE, AN army of boys and girls set out to conquer the world. Many of them are confident that their diploma will help them cope with any situation. They have no doubt that they will be able to take every bend in the road, sign banners on the way, and come into a Promised Land.

They have not tried to tackle reality yet. Their dreams have not had a chance to grow tarnished in the struggle. So they start on the uphill road gaily, gallantly, unafraid.

Instructors who are wise in the ways of life as well as the routine of the classroom will not teach boys and girls, young men and young women, that all battles go to the strong. They will not tell them that every race belongs to the fleet. They have learned better.

Rather, they will tell those who are new in the conflict that there are things of the spirit that mean infinitely more than material success can possibly mean. They will try to inspire them to make lives, not merely a living.

It would be a splendid thing if the far-flung visions that are such a glorious part of youth could span every long to-morrow as they dream of doing. But they can not. The play is not written that way. There are few all-star casts. The vast majority of May and June graduates must stay in the wings, waiting for cues that seldom come. They are going to be disappointed and restless, unless they have some abiding, deeper interest.

Then, too, the present economic system may make them think that there are no hopes, either round or square, for their pegs in the industrial structure. If their dreams are entirely materialistic this will be tremendously discouraging. If they are built from firmer stuff they will stand the strain.

Youth is such a buoyant time. It is only right that boys and girls should have a period for dreaming before life brings problems for solving. However, if the loss of a little transient glamour will supply more durable stuff for to-morrow's building, it is well worth the cost.

TASTING THE PUDDING

THAT SECTION OF THE PRESS OF this country which welcomed Great Britain's departure from her traditional free trade policies with a sustained fanfare of editorial trumpets, and enthusiastically predicted that she had chosen the cure-all for all her economic ills, may have noticed perhaps that in the month of May British industry showed a heavy increase in unemployment. No fewer than 100,000 workers were added to the idle brigade, the percentage of unemployed being 22.2 per cent of the entire working population of the country. In the county of Durham, by the way, it is as high as 39.6 per cent.

There are evidences, moreover, that those advocates of protection in Great Britain who were loudest in their demand that a national government be formed that would promptly throw the country's fiscal policy overboard are now soft-peddling the new formula. They are beginning to recognize that the country which tries to tax itself into prosperity is trying to make water flow uphill. Such prominent supporters of the government's innovation as Mr. Churchill and Mr. Amery, for example, are now telling the people of Britain that monetary reform is much more urgent. Note the following observation in the House of Commons from such a hard-shelled protectionist as Sir Robert Horne: "Although I believe the tariff is of first-class importance, it is in present circumstances entirely overshadowed by the question of currency." This is a little bit grudging perhaps, but coming from Sir Robert, a Tory of Tories, it is highly significant. And back of it there is the large increase in unemployment for last month.

KILLING THE "NOBLE ART"

AN ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH from New York last week predicted that "Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey may put on one of the greatest fights of modern times in Madison Square Garden's new outdoor bowl, on Long Island, next Tuesday night, and if they do, one of the smallest crowds in modern heavy-weight championship history may be there to see it." The dispatch concluded by saying that "all indications now point to an unprecedented lack of interest among the customers."

This prediction was discredited by the event on all counts. In point of attendance it was a huge success. But otherwise it was a disappointment, while the decision was such an obvious travesty that the majority of the sports writers now decline to discuss it seriously. This is how Mr. Royal Brougham, in The Seattle Post-Intelligencer, describes the radio reception of the set:

Rocking-chair fight fans, following last night's little argument between Mr. Sharkey and Herr Schmeling as it comes floating through the ether via radio:
Round One—It's Schmeling's round, folks.
Round Five—The German boy is winning in a canter. He hit Sharkey with everything but Aunt Ebb's flatiron.
Round Ten—Schmeling increases his lead, and is winning from here to Berlin. I think I could whip Sharkey myself; he looks so bad.
Round Fifteen—It's all Schmeling, folks. Why, Sharkey's both eyes are closed, his nose is flat, and both ears are swollen from the terrific punishment he took. The judges are writing their decisions, but you can turn off the radio right now, because you know it will be Maxie. Here's their decision, folks, and the winner is—JACK SHARKEY.

More than 70,000 people saw this spectacle, collectively contributing some $400,000 for the privilege. That sum would supply food and clothing to a large number of New York's unemployed. Whatever proportion went to the fighters they won easily enough. Indeed, judging by the comments of some of the critics they would have been overpaid if they had been awarded twenty-five dollars each, while the referee should have been fined for his contribution to the programme. The fight racket has been badly overdone in the United States and its radical reform or abolition is long overdue.

There is not much prospect of Germany paying any more reparations now. The decision of the referee in the Schmeling-Sharkey fight has settled that. Gunboat Smith now enters the arena of international statesmanship.

Tusko, the missing eleven-ton elephant which once ran amok and drank ten gallons of whisky in one breath, has been found not far from Tacoma. As an elephant is one of the symbols of the Republican party—otherwise the G.O.P.—and the liquor problem is one of the outstanding issues of the present political campaign, Tusko's boozing propensities should give him a rather unique eminence at this time. Whatever the Republican party thinks about the matter, Tusko is one elephant who is decidedly "wet" whenever he gets a chance. With a capacity of ten gallons of whisky per draught he can out-drink the whole of Congress—and that is saying something.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CANADA-JAMAICA TRADE
The Kingston Gleaner

Our present aim should be to explain fully to the Canadian Government, before the Imperial Conference meets, the effect of the present world sugar situation and of the limited English preference on the Jamaica sugar industry, with a view to seeing if some help cannot be obtained from Canada. For Canada desires to see Jamaica in a prosperous condition.

MAGNA CHARTA DAY
The Regina Leader

Over seven hundred years ago, on June 15, 1215, King John set his signature and the royal seal to the Great Charter, a document which conferred freedom and justice upon all classes of the community. "To-day," says a pamphlet sent out by the International Magna Charta Association, "200,000,000 people live under the traditions, laws and culture born of Magna Charta. The need of awakening and uniting these millions to this thought presses hard upon us."

Never before, perhaps, has the desirability of close co-operation between English-speaking peoples been more apparent than to-day. Development of those ideas of democratic government which are the inheritance of British men and women will aid as much as anything in meeting the situation which confronts the empire and most other countries of the world.

ANOTHER FLIER HONORED
The Regina Leader

His Majesty the King in his latest birthday honors, has conferred a knighthood upon Charles Edward Kingsford-Smith, the Australian aviator whose conquests of the Pacific and aerial triumphs in other parts have for years stamped him as one of the most daring and competent fliers of the time. Sir Charles, as presumably he will now be known, went to school at Vancouver as a lad.

Great Britain has not been slow to honor those who have brought her or the empire distinction in fields that combine science and sport as do aviation, motor racing or motor boat racing. Alcock and Brown, who gave British aviation the distinction of being the first to conquer the Atlantic in a non-stop flight, were knighted following their achievement of 1919. Segrave, the land and sea motor racing king, was knighted; so also has been Malcolm Campbell, present holder of the world's automobile racing record. So have been a number of others who have gained laurels in the air on the earth, or on the sea. These men are all recognized as valorous pioneers in their various fields.

It is possible that knightships and kindred decorations would never have come into the slightest question had they been maintained on the level represented in the case of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and others. It was abuse of the titles system that had not a little to do with its taboos in Canada, and possibly it has not been without its abuse in the Old Country either.

A THOUGHT

The captive exile hastens that he may be loosed, and that he should not die in the pit, nor his bread should fail.—Isaiah 41:14.

When our hope breaks, let our patience hold.—Thomas Fuller.

Loose Ends

Some vital news is gently broken—Mr. Young says more than he seems to realize—and the little boy next door has a birthday of sorts.

By H. B. W.

AS USUAL, while other parts of the paper are telling you of trivial things, like the presidential election and the threat to blow-up of Europe, it remains for this column to note (several days late) the really important event which has occurred all unsuspected in our midst. I refer to the summer's solstice. Yes, though probably you have not remarked it, we have passed the longest day of the year and are going downhill again, which, it seems to me, is a matter of far more intimate concern to all of us than the futilities of politics and the bewilderments of economics.

YES, THE YEAR has passed its zenith, almost before one had realized that it was well under way. The long evenings, the grown-up shorter before we had really started to enjoy them. We are in the full flush of summer (though at the moment it looks remarkably like October out here with a sharp threat of rain). We are indeed—and only my stern sense of public duty forces me to state it—rapidly approaching autumn. In nine short weeks, unhappy reader, we shall be into the fall. It is quite incredible. It is against all the laws of common sense and ordinary decency. It is indefensible on any ground. But it is so. The crickets chirp out here (when it is not raining), the mosquitoes hawk noon and scream overhead all night, the corn grows apace, the fields are in brown stubble. In nine short weeks the season of growth will be almost at an end, there will be a familiar and exquisite chill in the air in the mornings and the evenings, the fact is, the sun will start to fall and we shall be on the eve of winter.

YES, UNHAPPY reader, the days are beginning to close in now, half the year is spent, and, as the little girl from next door has just reminded me with a pagan joy, it will soon be Christmas. But do not imagine that I am trying to harrow you with these solstitial tidings, this reminder of mortality. Rather am I trying to cheer you up after what you are reading in the rest of the paper these days. It is cheering, surely, to know that we have already lived through half this year of tribulation, and only half is left, which will soon be over. We have come through two years and a half of depression, and somehow I feel that, having come this far, we shall get to the end all right.

MR. OWEN D. YOUNG, one of the first-rate intellects of the present day, said to a graduating class of university students the other day: "If you can survive the initial shock you will have before you the most favorable circumstances for service presented to young men of any time," and added that this opportunity had come "too late for my generation." There is a profound truth here, perhaps more profound than even Mr. Young suspects. Since we started to get into our present Jack-pot in 1929, two annual groups of young men have come of age. Since we started to go out of our senses, with remarkable unanimity and the best intentions back in the early twenties, millions of young men have grown from boyhood to manhood and more are pressing forward into maturity every year. There is, indeed, is the opportunity to do something, as Mr. Young points out; and it is only too true that his generation, our generation, is doing nothing worth anything of the larger issues before humanity.

THESE YOUNG men will accept the opportunity Mr. Young mentions shortly. They will grasp it to the full; but what I suspect that Mr. Young does not realize, or at least he didn't say it, is that these young men and women are not going to grasp it in our fashion, according to our notions, or in the method of Mr. Young and his generation. They are going to grasp it as they see fit, in their own way. What their own way will be I have no idea, but I fancy it will sound pretty terrible to us when the time comes. I fancy we are going to be amazed at the way the young of the world are going to take hold of things one of these days and scrap all the notions of Mr. Young and the rest of us. I fancy they are going to realize sooner than we calculate that, in the existing world, we have bequeathed them a gold brick, a bankrupt business and an intolerable load of debt. I fancy they are not going to feel bound to honor all our promises and fulfill all our idiotic contracts; for if they do, they will spend their entire lives, not enjoying the fruits of their labors, but paying for the good time which we had before the crash. The fact is, what we are asking the young to do—to pay the piper after we called the tune, to go through life without any tune of their own but only the cote of ours. Well, I fancy they will grasp their opportunities shortly to knock all our arrangements about them into a cocked hat. They have indeed their opportunity for service. I fancy they will decide to serve themselves. After all, there is no particular reason why they should spend their entire time serving us.

THE LITTLE girl from next door was over here just now with what seemed to me a lot of new toys. I mean, she had a clean lot about them, and when any of her toys are clean you may be sure that they haven't been out of the store more than a few hours. My deductions were soon confirmed. "Guess which," said she. "My little baby brother he went and had a birthday all to himself to-day. And what do you think of that? I guess you'll think he's a good boy now all right and a clever boy all right, too, even, um, um. So somebody sent him a nice woolly dog for his birthday, but he didn't like it, 'cause little boys don't like woolly dogs, I guess. So I helped him and took the woolly dog and here it is. And somebody gave him a nice red ball on an elastic but he didn't seem to understand it properly and he Just kept hitting it on the floor as hard as he could. So I knew he would only break the ball or the floor maybe, or perhaps hurt himself, so I thought I had better take the red ball on the elastic away from him, 'cause I'm his little sister. And somebody gave him a pink rattle while he rattled it he shook it. But when I shook it too hard the rattling things came out and then it didn't rattle any more.

U. M. Um. So I left the rattle with my baby brother, 'cause it can't hurt him, but after the rattling things had come out he didn't seem to like it much. That's funny, isn't it? And somebody gave him a book with pictures into it and a lot of words to read. But he can't read anything yet, so I took the book 'cause I can read extra well. I mean, I can read the pictures, but not the words quite. And somebody gave him a tiny-weeny little boat, but he might lose it, so I'm carrying it around with me all the time 'cause I'm his big sister and I have to look after my little baby brother. So he had a lovely birthday all right, but he didn't say much. He just sat there and looked stupid and never even said thank you when I looked after his things for him."

ESQUIMALT VOTE

To the Editor:—Just why there should be so much noise over the beer vote beats me.

Just why any other person should say I mustn't get beer by the glass if I want it also beats me.

I don't say Mr. Fraser, Mr. Dean, Mr. Fraser and others should not smoke or drink tea, coffee, etc. I don't interfere with their privileges.

Because: Beer parlors mean less taxation, more money for the treasury, employment; beer is good for you; beer parlors keep down bootlegging; beer parlors are under government supervision.

I will vote "yes" on 24th.

1234 Esquimalt Road, Esquimalt, B.C., June 22, 1932.

ESQUIMALT BEER VOTE

To the Editor:—I would like to point out to Mr. Fraser and others, as they are going to vote, that they have reached our ears that we "are to be made a convenience of" on the 24th. This would appear to be a trick of the "beer" party, rather than a genuine attempt to let him know that we are all wide awake in the service.

We had our eyes open when we joined the "beer" party, and we have the common sense to know how to vote. We most certainly object to Mr. Fraser or any one else's proposal to have beer sold by the glass. Since its introduction the consumption of hard liquor has increased tremendously. Drunkenness in Vancouver has increased over 400 per cent, and bootlegging grew at an alarming rate. Bootleggers work for beer by the glass, and if beer by the glass is necessary, it should be operated by the government, with beer at reasonable prices, and profits should go to reduce taxes, rather than into the pockets of brewers and saloon men.

Equality and I am certainly not going to place from twenty to thirty men and their families out of employment just to enhance the value of Mr. Fraser's property.

A PROPERTY HOLDER.
Esquimalt, B.C., June 22, 1932.

BEER PLEBISCITE

To the Editor:—Esquimalt has had beer parlors for seven years and what have they done for Victoria's finest residential district?

1. Attracted many undesirable to drink in its beer parlors.
2. Exploited the pay cheques of working men, and reduce their purchasing power.
3. Caused serious depreciation in property values, making it difficult to rent or sell.
4. Helped build up a brewer's fund to corrupt political parties and lead to greater brewery control of British Columbia.

Esquimalt has a chance on Friday to change all this by voting for home, Esquimalt and British Columbia. It's time for a change-time to free our district of this octopus.

"LABOR."

To the Editor:—The citizens of Esquimalt will settle on Friday whether "beer parlors" shall continue to block the progress of Esquimalt's development.

Why should Esquimalt continue to be the dumping ground for Victoria? Let us have them in all the city or in no place in the city. Victoria has settled the question for at least two years now.

To free Esquimalt from this social and moral menace, might cause a rise in property value, an increase in population. Why not try it by voting against the beer parlors? It is worth trying and can do no harm.

"FREEDOM."

UP TO THE PEOPLE

To the Editor:—It is time the government bodies had a little more awakening. Their minds hold nothing but taxes from the people. A list of some would take more paper than I can afford at this time. With wages so low, and so much unemployment, why are they not investing the people's money so as to overcome the predicament we are in to-day, and have investments revenue producing? If they are unable to look after the people let them climb down and give the people another chance to back successful business men who could serve the country at large.

May I say the people should soon come out of the fog and break from these parties, and see if they can possibly better condition.

W. J. ROBINSON,
3024 Highview Street, Victoria, B.C.

ESQUIMALT BEER PLEBISCITE

To the Editor:—I am astonished that a person signing himself as "Jack Tar" should insult the Esquimalt community by suggesting that their votes are influenced in any way, shape or form.

Just why a non-resident voter should not exercise his right to vote is more than I can understand.

In the Old Country every sailor has the right to vote, and when in foreign stations can vote by proxy.

Am inclined to think "Jack Tar" has never sailed before the mast.

The British navy will never give up their rum issue, and when on duty they will be good for them in the shape of a glass of good draught beer.

I for one won't shirk my duty as "Jack Tar" states he will do, but vote for the beer parlors, and let the non-residents who prefer liberty of thought and action.

"OLD SALT."

ESQUIMALT BEER PLEBISCITE

To the Editor:—I for one recent very much the highly painted literature put out by the prohibitionists in connection with the Esquimalt plebiscite. I feel it is an absolute insult to the community, and to our police force here. We have in Esquimalt very capable police, and to think they allow people to drive to the common danger and insult, and to our ladies and do as they please is an absolute wrong impression to give, and is done for one reason only, and that is to try and get people allayed about the making of home brew by forcing the people to buy their beer in their beer parlors.

The question is shall the beer barons be permitted to continue to overrule the people's promises given by moderate men in 1926, "that the saloon and pernicious treating system would not return," with private interests in charge pushing sale for private profit?

The arguments for beer by the glass were too much hard liquor is consumed, too much drunkenness, too many bootleggers, etc. The "beer" party proposal has failed in every respect. Since its introduction the consumption of hard liquor has increased tremendously. Drunkenness in Vancouver has increased over 400 per cent, and bootlegging grew at an alarming rate. Bootleggers work for beer by the glass, and if beer by the glass is necessary, it should be operated by the government, with beer at reasonable prices, and profits should go to reduce taxes, rather than into the pockets of brewers and saloon men.

They are simply exploiting the working men at a time when women and children are starving. It is time for workingmen to provide for home, wife and children, rather than let their money go to brewers and licensees.

COMMON SENSE.

BEER PLEBISCITE

To the Editor:—Referring to the letter signed A. G. Jacques in this morning's paper, why should beer parlors be compensated more than any other business? Supposing a grocer or a butcher loses the goodwill of his customers and falls, should he be compensated?

If the beer parlors are defeated at the polls on June 24, it will show that they have likewise lost their goodwill and should have just the same claim as a failing business man. In Great Britain insurance is carried to protect all liquor licensees. Moreover, who was here first—the people who had invested their money and built up a residential district or the beer parlors? Did the former claim any compensation when the latter came in, and depreciated their property values? If you do not think that they did depreciate value, ask any real estate agent. Protagoras, the philosopher of the question, the building has increased from $15,000 in 1923 to $90,000 in 1931, as an argument in their favor. Why then have Oak Bay and Saanich, which have no beer parlors, and which have no argument, far outstripped us in the matter of building?

If the beer parlors owners who have "put their all" into the business have not been able to get it back with good interest in the eight years they have enjoyed their monopoly, they must be very poor business men. The "all" referred to is $30,000 between the three. After compensation, should such an idea be entertained, would not the beer interests call for another plebiscite in three years? If they won, would they refund the money?

Again, if the beer parlors investors did not know that at the end of every three years they would be asked to submit to a plebiscite, they certainly must be poor business men.

MOVE FOR NEW TRADE TREATY

Canada and Germany Expected to Sign Pact Within Six Months

Canadian Press
Berlin, June 23.—An agreement between Germany and Canada to negotiate a commercial treaty within six months was announced by the German government yesterday. Higher tariff duties will not be imposed in the meantime the contracting countries were said to have agreed.

Ottawa, June 23.—It is anticipated discussions as to the possibility of a trade agreement between Canada and Germany will be initiated later in the year, according to intimations in official circles here.

The situation, as between Canada and Germany, was explained briefly as follows:
A short time ago the German Reichstag established a surtax on customs rates, to be enforced on all imports from countries which did not accord to Germany most favored nation treaty terms or were not negotiating trade agreements. This surtax was applicable only against three countries—Poland, Australia and Canada. Arrangements were made about a month ago between Poland and Australia and Germany, leaving Canada the only country to which the surtax would be applicable.

LEVY WITHDRAWN
The government of Canada made strong representations to the German authorities, asking the surtax be withdrawn. To these the German government has now acceded, and the surtax has been canceled as affecting Canada. It is anticipated negotiations will be proceeded with later in the year.

At present the general tariff rates apply to imports from Germany, it is stated here. Quite a considerable trade is carried on between Canada and Germany. During the calendar year 1931 Canada's exports to Germany totaled $11,503,720, of which agricultural products accounted for $7,503,920. For the same period Canada imported from Germany goods to the value of $12,081,897. Importations of chemicals and allied products were to the value of $2,505,227, fibres and textiles $1,988,808 and "miscellaneous commodities" $2,443,474.

Flood Protection Is Asked By Town

Calgary, June 23.—The Okotoks town council has petitioned the Dominion Government seeking aid in preventing further losses from floods. Okotoks, about twenty miles southwest of Calgary, was the scene of severe floods early this month.

Heavy rains and flood waters from the Rockies forced Sheep Creek over its banks, flooding part of the town and causing great damage. Sheep Creek has formed another bed and thirteen homes will be in danger till efforts are made to check the creek's flow.

made Esquimalt an undesirable residential area, and values have fallen 80 per cent.

4. Men employed in the beer parlors are not doing any good service, and good rather than harm will result if their employment is stopped.

5. Liberty of the subject not interfered with. Beer can be bought at the vendor's shop, and drunk at home in pleasant surroundings.

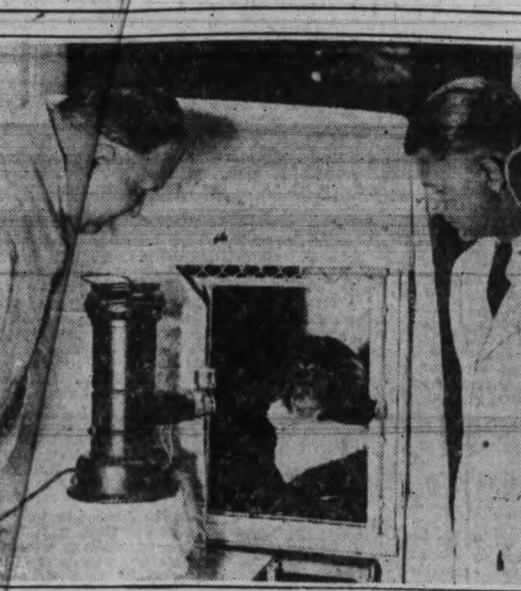

6. The three beer parlors between them pay only $600 to the municipality. The owners would still have to pay this, open or closed.

7. Travel on the Esquimalt Road, both by auto and by street car, will be made pleasant and safer when drinks are no longer concentrated on it.

WINDSTORM IN PRAIRIE AREA

Canadian Press

Milestone, Sask., June 20.—Reminiscent of the Regina cyclone of June 30, 1912, the district south of Milestone was visited late yesterday afternoon by a heavy wind storm, accompanied by rain and hail, which caused heavy damage to buildings and crops lying in its path. The gale came up quickly at about 5.30 p.m., and though it lasted for little more than half an hour it spread destruction over a tract of fertile land approximately three miles wide and twenty miles long, leaving about four miles south of the town.

Robert Rennie Jr. had a terrifying experience and a very narrow escape when the house in which he was living was lifted from its foundation and smashed to splintering wood. His only injury was a sprained ankle.

Six miles of telephone lines were blown down and communication was difficult.

JOBLESS ASK COUNCIL RESIGN

Unemployed Suggest Government Commissioner For Municipality of Burnaby

Canadian Press
Edmonds, B.C., June 23.—The resignation of Reeve W. A. Pritchard and the other members of the Burnaby municipal council was demanded yesterday evening by a delegation claiming to represent the unemployed of the municipality, who suggested that the council, having confessed its inability to continue financing direct relief, should resign and make way for a government commissioner.

This demand was made during a three-hour session held by the council in camera in the reeve's office.

After making the demand, the unemployed present paraded along Kingsway to Edmonds Street, where a meeting was held in "the Workers' Hall."

Councillors thoroughly discussed the situation, but adjourned at 10.30 p.m. without arriving at any definite decision, pending result of negotiations with the Dominion and provincial governments.

During discussion it was stated a letter had been sent to the authorities at Ottawa outlining the seriousness of the situation and intimating that unless financial assistance was given to Burnaby, direct relief must cease so far as the municipality was concerned.

POWER DEBATE AT CONVENTION

Delegates of Union of B.C. Municipalities to Discuss Rights at Nelson

Canadian Press

Grand Forks, B.C., June 23.—"Hands off the Municipal Act" by power and utility companies will be the demand of Grand Forks in a resolution to be adopted at the convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at Nelson next Monday. This is the result of a special meeting of the city council with its solicitor, C. F. Pincock, taken by the West Kootenay Power and Light Company to the city of Grand Forks building and operating its own hydro electric plant is based, it is said, on the assumption that order-in-council under the Water Act can over-ride the Municipal Act put on the statutes by the Legislature.

Grand Forks maintains this is unthinkable if charters given cities and municipalities are to retain their significance.

Right of municipalities to retain their authority to develop and install power systems as opposed to the rights claimed by private companies promises to be a big issue in the convention.

DELTA GAMMAS ON WAY HERE

Sorority Executive Met at Banff Yesterday to Complete Agenda

250 Delegates Expected Here For Convention Opening Monday

The advance guard of the Delta Gamma Sorority destined for Victoria, arrived at Banff yesterday and went into session at the Banff Springs Hotel to complete the programme for the annual convention to be held at the Empress Hotel, Victoria, June 27 to 30.

250 DELEGATES

The executive, headed by Mrs. Joseph Halstead of Evanston, Ill., was busy all day completing the agenda for the great meeting at which an attendance of over 250 delegates from American and Canadian chapters is expected. A special train carrying representatives from the eastern and midwestern United States and Canada is due here Saturday morning. The party, over 200 strong, will spend the day here and then proceed to Lake Louise.

In addition to the president, those present at yesterday's meetings included Mrs. Walter Singham of Toronto, first vice-president; Miss Margaret Winant, New York City, second vice-president; Mrs. E. W. Hawley, Minneapolis, Minn., secretary; and Miss Hazel Brown, Philadelphia, treasurer. Miss Brown is assistant district attorney of Philadelphia. The council will make a brief stop here and proceed to Chateau Lake Louise to join the main body of delegates headed for the convention.

CONVENTION AGENDA

On Monday, June 27, the members will arrive at the Empress Hotel, and the banquet for the convention will be held in the evening at 8:30 o'clock. At 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday the business sessions will commence, continuing throughout the day until 2:30 p.m. On Wednesday, June 29, with "Stunt Night" in the evening and a swimming meet at the Crystal Garden. At 7 a.m. on Thursday, June 30, the members will meet for breakfast, and the grand banquet will be held in the ballroom in the evening at 8:30 o'clock. The banquet will be one of the most elaborate affairs of the kind ever held at the hotel, and plans for the decoration of the ballroom insure something particularly attractive. The entire room will be transformed into a forest glade. On entering the ballroom, the members will cross over a stream by means of a rustic bridge. A lake, large enough to float a canoe, will be constructed, and at the far end of the ballroom, a waterfall, almost ten feet in height, will come tumbling over a rocky hillside which will flow into a pool and ferns will be planted. All round the margin of the ballroom tall cedars and fir trees will be planted, and the banquet tables will be arranged in the space in the centre of the room.

On July 1 the delegates will journey to "Benvenuto" in the morning, and will leave for their homes in the afternoon.

MADE IN CANADA

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

During vacation time, when children are at home all day, luncheon presents a new problem to many mothers. More freedom is permitted than during school days. The lunch hour is not rigid and bed-time varies. With food always available, the temptation to eat between meals is trying. These factors as well as the custom of serving the hearty meal at the end of the day all increase the problem.

Children must have a hearty noon meal. Hours of active play in the fresh air exhaust energy and make nourishing food necessary. But, unless special meals are prepared for children, the noon meal is the light one and the evening meal is the hearty one eaten with the older members of the family.

There are certain rules which govern the choice of a child's daily diet and some knowledge of these rules is essential. Every child should have in his diet every day one quart of milk. He should have at least three vegetables, one of which may be potatoes and one of the others raw or green. He should have two fruits, one preferably raw. He should have one serving of meat, fish or eggs. A whole grain cereal, three slices of toast or cereal and four glasses of water complete the list of foods necessary to maintain a balanced diet and provide an adequate number of calories.

VARY WAYS OF SERVING MILK

If a child does not want to drink his allotted quart of milk, it may be used over vegetables, in soups and in desserts.

An easy way to plan a child's lunch menu is to include in it those foods in his daily food requirement that are not served at breakfast or dinner when the family are together. Then, if he is given his broiled chicken or meat cake at noon, he may have the dinner vegetables provided for the rest of the family.

Very often the luncheon dessert can be counted as the "main dish," because a large amount of nourishment can be put into a pudding. This type of dessert is seldom wanted for dinner and adds variety if used for the noon meal.

When the dinner is hearty, a simple luncheon of raw vegetable sandwiches, one hot cooked vegetable, a glass of milk and a nourishing dessert proves most satisfactory for hot noons. A vegetable salad with bread and butter sandwiches can take the place of the sandwiches.

Another point to keep in mind is that luncheon dishes should be easily digested because the meal comes at the hottest time of the day. Insist on fifteen minutes rest before the meal and half an hour of quiet in the shade after the meal.

TO-MORROW'S MENU
Breakfast: Orange juice, cereal, cream, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon: Green pea soup, croquettes, grated carrot sandwiches, egg lemonade.
Dinner: Baked salmon trout, casserole of eggplant, lettuce and cucumber salad, rice pudding with gooseberry sauce, milk, coffee.

As this is the last meeting before the summer vacation, a full attendance of members is hoped for. On Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a general rally of Presbyterian mission bands at St. Andrew's. Parents and friends are invited to hear and see what mission bands can do.

St. Joseph's W.A. — The Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital will hold its annual business meeting on Friday at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Nurses' Home. All members are invited to attend.

WEDDING HELD AT CENTENNIAL

Miss Nessie Renfrew Pretty
Bride of Walter Sydney
Starkey

One of the prettiest weddings of the season drew a large congregation to the Centennial United Church for the marriage yesterday evening at 8 o'clock of Nessie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Renfrew, 487 Ker Avenue, and Mr. Walter Sydney Starkey, young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Starkey, 1810 Ralph Street. The church was beautifully decorated for the happy occasion with sprays, roses and carnations, and during the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. C. Switzer, the bride couple stood beneath an arch covered with similar blossoms, from which hung a white wedding veil.

Mr. Renfrew gave his daughter in marriage, she making a lovely bride in her wedding gown of ivory crepe-back satin, made in ankle-length, with the slim bodice having sleeves fitting closely to the elbow, then flowing gracefully. Her veil of embroidered net was arranged to her head with three strands of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses and pink carnations.

Miss Lily Starkey, sister of the bridegroom, was the only bridesmaid, dressed in yellow crepe de Chine and a mohair hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and maidenhair fern. Mr. James Renfrew, brother of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. James Lindsay and Mr. Mes Starkey. The organist, Mrs. Paul Green, played the wedding march, and during the service Mr. J. Matheson sang "For You Alone."

Following the service a reception, attended by many guests, was held at the Sons of England Hall, Broad Street, which was beautifully decorated with sprays, roses, and greenery. The bride and groom stood beneath an arch of the blossoms to receive the felicitations of their many friends, and were assisted by Mrs. Renfrew in a gown of navy blue georgette and lace and a model hat to match, and by Mrs. Starkey Sr. in blue crepe de Chine and hat en suite. They both wore corsages of pink and white carnations. Pale heliotrope and yellow was used in the decorative scheme of the supper table, which was centred with a three-tier cake.

Dancing to music supplied by a five-piece orchestra was enjoyed by the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Starkey left later by motor for up-island, en route for Vancouver, and on their return will spend the summer at Ocean Beach, Esquimalt.

The bride left in a pretty ensemble of turquoise blue crepe de Chine, a beige hat, and coat with a lapin collar and other beige accessories.

Among the many presents received by the young couple were handsome gifts from the staff of the Victoria Bay Company, where both the bride and bridegroom have been employed.

An attractive musical programme is being arranged, and the boys are arranging other entertainments. The proceeds will be devoted to the fund to provide a meeting place for the scout troop during the winter months.

Daughters of England — Primrose Lodge No. 32 will hold a social meeting to-morrow at 7:30 o'clock. Final arrangements regarding the visit of the Grand Lodge officers will be explained, and a good attendance of members is requested. A strawberry and ice cream social will follow the meeting.

Mothers' Union Garden Party Is Pleasant Affair

About 200 members of the Mothers' Union and their friends attended the annual garden party held at Bishop's Close yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Llewellyn Thomas, the president, assisting Mrs. C. de V. Schofield in receiving the many guests. After wandering through the gardens which are very lovely just now, adjournment was made to the gymnasium of the Memorial Hall for tea and a programme.

Charmingly-costumed children from the Sir James Douglas School presented a series of graceful folk dances. Mrs. Thomas thanked the principal and teachers of the school and the pupils for the delightful entertainment, and also welcomed the members of the newly-formed James Bay Circle, Little Lucy's daughter of a James Bay member, presented dainty bouquets to the teachers in charge of the folk dancing.

Tea and ice cream were served at tables daintily decorated with flowers by Miss Goward, the tea arrangements being in charge of Mrs. B. G. Goward. A collection of booklets and Mothers' Union literature was displayed by Mrs. Fuller, in the absence of the literature secretary, Mrs. Hartley.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRÉ

The quality of brightness has an appeal for all of us. The baby old enough to hold out his hand for an object will invariably choose those with glint and sparkle. There is a fascination in sunshine, in the sheen of materials, and the warmth and glow of fire undeniably attract young and old.

PROHIBITION INEFFECTIVE — Because we admit this strong attraction, we should understand that to prevent a child's making fire is simply to put off the day when he'll be old enough to handle and strike matches in an urge so strong that it defies punishment and prohibition. Only recently half the buildings in a small town were kindled by children playing with matches. The child sees his parents strike matches, he sees the flames and ease with which fire springs from these small sticks, and he tries the same tactics safely hidden behind some object, often inflammable, because we have made this a forbidden act.

There seems only one way to prevent such disasters. Allow the child to use matches in the proper way. Admit their fascination and when the match box can no longer be kept safely out of reach, teach the child the art of using matches without danger to himself. Whenever the fireplace needs lighting, whenever the gas stove needs lighting, turn off the gas, let the child see how the match is used, let him strike the match, how to hold it close to the inflammable material. This is no more difficult than many of the other things we expect him to learn without question. It is only that we are aware of the potential danger in flames. We must teach the child not to shut his eyes but to know its dangers and also its uses.

When the child has been allowed to light matches until his desire is satisfied, they no longer constitute a fascination to him. He can, in a word, use them or leave them alone. He doesn't suffer from the compulsion to see what will happen when he lights them and thus to wait until the adult is out of sight before experimenting. That way lies danger. The very glib secretiveness of the act impels the child to be hasty but not careful.

POOR ARGUMENT — When matches are forbidden and there has been no education in their use, the child doesn't know why he can't have matches. He only knows that he can't. To say, "They're dangerous," when everybody else is using them is not a very convincing argument. Also, I think it rather silly to burn a child to show him that fire is dangerous. We aren't intent on arousing fear, but on teaching caution. If the child is able to light as many matches as he wishes with the mother right at hand, if we consider it not a misdemeanor but simply an act which he has to learn before being trusted, we can tell him we are cautious because, by their very nature, matches can light the wrong things as well as the things we want kindled. Then the child is armed with knowledge and develops a skill that minimizes the dangers of his every encounter with fire.

MRS. HOFFMAN was eighteen when her baby was born. Within a year she had a serious operation. Then the flu. Her nerves went to pieces. She cried over nothing at all. It was an unhappy household.

Her grandmother told her about the famous Vegetable Compound. That's how old and trusted a remedy it is! "I have taken six bottles," she says, "with marvelous results and I am thankful for my increasing health."

"The Plains of Abraham"

BY JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
(Copyright by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc.)

Jeems could not tell her it was because he had killed Tiaoga.

As the melody of the bell had fallen like a benediction over the Plains of Abraham, so peace and happiness followed in the footsteps of the conquerors of New France. At the stroke of a pen, half a continent changed hands, and from the pulpit of the Canadas as well as from those of the English colonies voices were raised in gratitude to God that the conflict was ended. Even the beaten rejoiced, for during the months of its final agony the heart of the nation had been sapped by corruption and dishonesty until faith had crumbled in men's souls and British presence came to be regarded as a guarantee of liberty and not as the calamity of defeat. "At last there is an end to war on this continent," preached Thomas Foxcroft, pastor of the Old Church in Boston, for like a million others of his countrymen he did not foresee the still greater conflict for American independence less than fifteen years ahead. And the echo was repeated—"At last there is an end to war." Again the sun was golden in its promise. Men called the days their own, and the frontiers slumbered, the most vengeful of the savages retreated to their fastnesses, women sang and children played with new visions in their eyes. These were the days of a nation's birth, when the Briton mingled with those whom he had defeated, and transformed New France into Canada.

In the spring of 1761 Jeems returned to the Richelieu. Madame Tonteur, her spirit subdued and her malice chastened, placed into his hands and those of her daughter the broad domain of Tonteur Manor, which was her desire never to see again. That the home of their future was to be built amid the scenes of a tragedy which had brought them together, and where they would feel the presence of loved ones who had found happiness there as well as death, brought to Tontette and Jeems a joy which only they could understand. For the charmed ruins of Tonteur Manor and the Forbidden Valley were home, even to Hepzibah Adams, and when Jeems reached the hallowed ground he had left five years before, he wrote Tontette, who waited in Quebec, telling her how the still smiling their voices, how green the abandoned meadows were, and that everywhere flowers had come to bless the solitude and the resting places of their dead. Then he set to work with the map who had come with him, and in the golden flush of September he went for Tontette and his boy. A haze of smoke drifted once more from the chimneys of cottages in the valley lands, and with another summer the lowing of cattle and the bleating of sheep rose at evening time, and the old mill wheel turned again, and often Tontette rode beside Jeems toward Forbidden Valley, sometimes with her hair in curls, with a ribbon streaming from them.

It was in this second year, when the chestnut buds were green on the ridges, that strangers came down the trail from Tonteur hill one evening, two men and a woman and a girl. The men were Senecas, and the miller, who met them first, eyed them with suspicion as well as wonder, for while the girl was pretty and the woman white, the men who accompanied them were fierce and tall and marked by battle. They were also extremely proud, and passed the miller without heeding his command to make themselves known, stalking to the front of the big house, followed by the woman and the girl, where Tontette saw them and gave such a cry that the miller ran back for his gun. In this way Tiaoga came to Tonteur Manor to show Jeems the scar his arrow had made, and with him were Wood Pigeon and Shindas and Mary Daghen. For many years after, until he was killed in the frontier fighting which preceded the American war for independence, Tiaoga returned often to the valley of the Richelieu, and as time went on, the pack of soft skins and bright feathers he brought with him grew larger, for another boy was given to Tontette, and then a girl, so that with three children always watching hoping for his arrival, the warrior was kept busy accumulating treasures for them. Once each year Mary and Shindas visited Tonteur Manor, and with them came their children when they grew old enough to travel through the wilderness. Wood Pigeon did not return to Chenuafio. Tokana, her crippled father, had given up his valiant struggle the preceding winter and had died. She lived with Tontette and Jeems until she was nineteen, when she married a young French landowner named De Poncy.

From one of a sheaf of yellow letters which he read these lines, dated June 14, 1767, written to Nancy Lotbiniere-Gagnon by Marie Antoinette Bulain. "My Own Dear Nancy: "Sadness had fallen over us here at Tonteur Manor. Odd is dead. I no longer have a doubt that God has given souls to the beasts, for wherever we look we miss him, and a fortnight has passed since we buried him close to the chapel yard. It was like missing a child who loved us, or more than that, one who guarded us as he loved. Even last night little Marie Antoinette sobbed herself to sleep because he cannot come, whereas, call him, I cannot keep tears from my own eyes when I think of him, and even Jeems, strong as he is, turns from me when we pass the chapel yard, ashamed of what I might see in his face. Odd was all we had left to us of other days—he and Hepzibah. And it is Hepzibah for whom my heart aches most. For years dear old Odd has guided him in his blindness, with a cord attached to his neck, and I believe they knew how to talk to each other. "Hepzibah now sits alone so much, keeping away from others, and every evening we see him groping about the gate of the chapel yard as if hoping to find someone there. Oh, what a terrible thing is death, which rends us all with its grief in time! But I must not morbidly or unburden my gloom or you will wish I had remained silent another month. "It is a glorious June here. The roses are in bloom. One wonders if the misty spots on the yellow pages are tears. THE END

Speed of Gossip Helps Keep Men and Women On the Right Road—High Dive of Matrimony Makes Them All Worry Till It's Taken—Girls Should Be Allowed to Choose Husbands

DEAR MISS DIX—In the group of girls with whom I go there is a lack of intelligent conversation. Most of the talk is made up of gossip. We are between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-four, have known each other for years. We are all business girls with good positions. After an evening spent in gossiping I feel so disgusted with myself and others that I make a firm resolution never to indulge in it again, but break it the next opportunity. Do men gossip like this when they are with their own sex? If you know of a remedy for gossip, please let us know. THE GOSSIPS, JR.

Answer—There is no way to stop people from gossiping because gossip deals with people we know, and what they are doing and thinking and saying, and what they have done and thought and said, and are likely to do and say and think in the future is the most absorbingly interesting topic in the world to us.

The fall of empires is not so important to us as the failure of the grocery store of some man of our acquaintance. No novel thrills us as does the love affair of the boy and girl across the street. We are not half so interested about what the Japanese are going to do in China as we are about whether the Smiths are going to get a divorce or not. We are a lot more thrilled over Mary's account of her week-end than we are over the discoveries some scientist has made in the heart of Africa.

Gossip about some business man and his secretary, about where some man went on a sudden trip, about whether some woman knows about her husband taking out a blonde, about some young couple who are going together, about who was in a parked automobile, about the funny clothes some woman wears, our studies in psychology, our amateur sleuthing, our yarious adventures, our love idylls, our romance our humor, and to expect anybody to forego all of these delights and to spend an evening discussing Shakespeare and the musical glasses, or the trend of politics, or the Geneva Conference is to expect them to give up good juicy red meat and gnaw on desiccated bones.

Of course, if gossip degenerates into scandal-mongering, it is a heinous crime. If you spend your evenings saying mean and catty things about the absent members of your group and imputing to them sins of omission and commission they never committed, then the sooner you stop your nefarious practice the better. But just ordinary chatter about each other's affairs is a harmless enough amusement.

Robert Louis Stevenson put the ability to be a good gossip as the chief quality of a good wife. He contended that no woman was so delightful as the woman who could go down the street and pick up a budget of pleasant news out of which she could make interesting conversation.

Personally, I have always thought that if gossip sometimes did harm it oftener did good, and that it was about the best policeman in the world. For the fear of what "people will say" keeps many a potential sinner walking the straight and narrow way. Nor have I ever been able to see why the general public should be more careful of a man or woman's reputation than he or she is. If Mrs. X goes out joyriding with men and leaves her children to run the streets or Mr. A takes his secretary out to lunch, why shouldn't the neighbors speak of it?

Of course, men are just as bad gossipers as women and any man's club is more full of scandalous tales than any women's society, no matter how much men deny it. Every woman knows that the men of her family listen with hated breath until she has told them every scrap of news about everybody they know, and then they lift virtuous hands to Heaven and say: "My goodness, how you women do gossip!"

Probably bridge has done more to stop gossip than any other one thing in the world. So if you really do want to reform your circle, take up contract in a serious way and substitute "What's Trump?" for "Say, have you heard about May and—"

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am depending upon you to settle my future happiness. I am supposed to get married within a couple of weeks and I cannot make up my mind. I get the most nervous feeling and do not know if it is against my boy friend or if it is the thought of getting tied for life. I think I love my fiancé, who is everything that is fine and good, and I can't bear to think of life without him, and I am afraid to try it with him. What shall I do? Will I be happy if I get married? FRANTIC.

Answer—Almost every man and woman goes through the same experience that you are having on the eve of marriage. They get into a panic in which they lose all perspective and which leaves them uncertain of their own feelings and what is best to do. They are so appalled at the finality of what they are about to do that their very bones turn to water.

They can see nothing but the dangers of marriage that loom sinister and dark before them. And most of all they feel the fears snapping on their wrists and the doors of the prison banging behind them and the horror of losing their freedom becomes an obsession, and for the moment they feel that no man or woman is worth the sacrifice that marriage entails.

There are not many brides and grooms who, if they told the truth, would not admit that they spent their bridal eve in a blue funk, and that if they could have made a decent getaway they would have done so. But the even greater than their fear of marriage was the fear of gossip and the disapprobation of their friends, and so conventions drove them on to the altar, and once the marriage was an accomplished fact, all of the bugaboos their imaginations had conjured up vanished into thin air and they started forth joyfully on their honeymoon. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think a girl in the third year of high school, sixteen years of age, should go steady with a boy? My mother thinks so, and when any other boy asks me to go with him she refuses to let me. I am young and enjoy having a good time and can't understand why it is a bar on your reputation to go with more than one boy. In choosing a lifemate I would like to have a variety to choose from and I can't know a boy without going with him. SWEET SIXTEEN.

Answer—You are right and your mother is wrong in this matter. No girl of sixteen should go just with one boy. She should have as many boy friends as possible.

The reason for this is obvious. If she goes just with one boy, she narrows down her chances of marrying just to him. She drives all other boys away, and when they are grown he may tire of her and leave her for another girl and then she is left stranded.

Then if a girl and boy go together continually, they are likely to think they are in love and they are much too young to be getting sentimental. Most of the disastrous girl-and-boy marriages that wreck so many lives is the result of youngsters segregating themselves from the balance of the crowd and going together until they get to thinking that their puppy love was the real thing. It is far safer for girls to play around with a lot of boys than it is just with one.

Then if a boy and girl go together a long time, people assume that they are in love with each other and public opinion almost forces them to marry, even when they have no real feeling for each other.

The more boys a girl knows, the better chances she has of making a good match and getting a husband who really suits her. A girl of sixteen should never dream of tying herself down to one boy. DOROTHY DIX.

Indian Adventure Stories

IV—THE LONE WARRIOR

The cold wind swept over the Dakota prairies. Snow lay thick on the ground, and eight miles had trouble in pulling the wagon behind them. It was a party of gold-seekers, made up of twelve men from Iowa. They were bound for the Black Hills, where they had come west to the strangely beautiful hills.

The Black Hills were then the home of the Sioux Indians. After being driven from their former lands, the Sioux had come west to the strangely beautiful hills.

The gold-hunters feared that they might not be welcomed into the Black Hills, but they were "armed to the teeth." Careful watch had been kept for five weeks, but no Indians had been seen. To-day the men were tired. Most of them had let their rifles lay in the wagon as they plodded along on foot.

"The Sioux will be around their campfires on such a bitter day as this," they thought.

Suddenly someone pointed to the west. Far in the distance was a dark spot which moved across the snow. It grew larger and was seen to be a man on horseback.

The stranger rode to a point near the wagon, and then let down the blanket which shielded his face. He was a young Sioux warrior. His face was stern, and he stretched out his arm—pointing back over the trail upon which the wagon had traveled. In a strong voice, he shouted: "Go!"

Cold though they were, the white men saw humor in this. How could a single Indian drive back a band of twelve hearty men? They laughed and told the Sioux to jump into a snowdrift and cool off.

"Go! Go! Go!" he cried. The men kept up their laughing until they saw the Indian spur his horse forward. Raising a repeating carbine, he fired shot after shot into the long mule team. Then he turned and galloped away.

Hardly believing what they had seen, the white men rushed to the wagon to get their rifles. They fired at the Indian, but he was making a zigzag course over the prairie, and they did not injure him.

Several miles had fallen, and the men decided to give up the quest for gold. They had been turned back by a single, daring savage.

TOMORROW ON WITH THE STORY.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1932

Benefic aspects appear to rule strongly to-day, according to astrology. It is a time for finishing business or professional negotiations.

The day is especially auspicious for interviews with bankers and financiers. There is luck also for the man or woman who adjusts accounts or pays debts.

Mathematicians and all who deal with figures small or large are well directed under this planetary government.

The way encourages exactitude and system. One should be able to keep their cheque-books straight while this configuration prevails.

Mental processes are supposed to be stimulated under this direction of the stars, which should be favorable to speakers and writers.

Concentration is to be much discussed in the coming weeks, when the value of one-track ambitions will be stressed.

While many new inventions are prophesied, the trend will be toward simplifying machinery and eliminating what is superfluous in the daily programme of the average person, the seers prophesy.

Because individuals have wrapped themselves in countless interests and activities so that they have no time for serene contemplation much of the mystic's distrust has been brought about, occultists explain.

While the stars appear to preface a revival of old-time dignity and formality, persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year favorable to many professions and especially to writers. Editors will profit.

Children born on this day probably will be alert and ambitious. The subjects of this sign usually lead in any chosen vocation.

Henry Ward Beecher, famous clergyman, was born on this day, 1813. Another who celebrated it as a birthday was Shakespeare.

Magnificent Roses Seen In Show Here

Blooms From Local Gardens
Admired at Oak Bay Rose
Society's Show

H. R. Beaven Takes Prize For
Champion Rose of Show;
Other Winners Announced

Magnificent roses from private gardens of Oak Bay were much admired by a large number of people yesterday afternoon at the Crystal Garden when the Oak Bay Rose Society staged its eighth annual show. The display was up to those of former years but would have been much better if it had not been for the heavy rains of last few days. Staged a week ago the show would have been the finest in the last ten years, officials of the society stated.

Roses of rare colors and scents filled the display shelves in the exhibition room. All the competitors were amateur growers who make gardening their hobby during the summer months. The roses in the show had been carefully cultured and nursed since the beginning of the season and showed the great care that the gardeners had taken with them. The leaves, all a most beautiful green, featured the various exhibits. There were large roses for table decorations and beautifully formed small buds for buttonholes.

The Lady Inchiquin rose, entered by Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Beavan of Beach Drive, took the prize as the champion bloom of the show. It was a rare color of deep pink and was much admired by the visitors.

There were a number of artistically decorated dining tables in the show. Mrs. M. R. Jamieson took the first prize and Mrs. V. Harrington the second. With the use of roses only the ladies who entered this class showed how beautifully luncheon and dinner tables can be adorned. Some of the tables had only one large centre cut glass bowl of roses of one shade while others had four or five small silver vases showing blooms of different colors. Other roses were shown to advantage in amber, blue and green glass bowls.

SCHOOL DISPLAY

The grade schools of Oak Bay also entered interesting exhibits of roses, grown in the school gardens or at the homes of the pupils. These blooms were entered in one large display. The Monterey School took first place with the Willows second.

A special feature of the show was the exhibit of early sweet peas by Crossland Brothers of Duncan. This display showed peas of all colors, from white all the way to deep purples and blues. It was one of the finest sweet pea displays ever seen here. R. C. Philip of Cedar Hill Road had a table of different flowers that also lent variety and further color to the show.

Following is the list of prize winners: Representative group of roses—Winner, Layritz Nurseries.

Exhibition roses, twelve blooms, different varieties—1, H. R. Beaven; 2, W. F. Salisbury.

Exhibition roses, six blooms, one variety (in show box)—1, R. A. Nicholson; 2, Brig-General J. S. Dunbar.

Garden or decorative roses, twelve blooms, different varieties—1, H. R. Beaven; 2, A. Barclay.

Garden or decorative roses, six blooms, different varieties—1, C. J. Prior; 2, Mrs. David Reid.

Six blooms, new roses, placed in commerce since 1924—1, R. A. Nicholson; 2, Brig-General J. S. Dunbar.

Best selection buttonhole roses, six blooms, different varieties—1, Brig-General Dunbar; 2, Judge P. S. Lampman.

Semi-double roses, three vases, each containing a different variety, not more than two stems to each vase—1, R. A. Nicholson; 2, Brig-General Dunbar.

One vase single roses, six stems—M. R. Jamieson.

One vase single roses, three stems—1, E. Stotham; 2, R. A. Nicholson.

Bowl of cut roses arranged with rose foliage only—1, R. A. Nicholson; 2, Brig-General Dunbar.

Basket of roses shown with rose foliage only—1, Mrs. V. Harrington; 2, Miss Coulter.

Three white or cream roses—1, H. O. Simpson; 2, R. A. Nicholson.

Three yellow roses—1, R. A. Nicholson; 2, Brig-General Dunbar.

Three pink roses—1, R. A. Nicholson; 2, Dr. W. P. Walker.

Three red roses—1, R. A. Nicholson; 2, Brig-General Dunbar.

Three other roses—1, H. O. Simpson; 2, R. A. Nicholson.

Decorated dining table, roses only—1, Mrs. M. R. Jamieson; 2, Mrs. V. Harrington.

Best bloom grown from maiden plant—H. R. Beaven.

Novice class, open only to growers who have not won a prize in any other rose show—Doris Banks.

School competition—1, Monterey

School; 2, Willows School.

Champion rose of show—H. R. Beaven.

J. Fyfe Smith, vice-president of the society, acted as judge. Patrons of the show were Lady Barnard, Mrs. R. P. Butchart, Mrs. H. R. Beaven and Mrs. Walter C. Nichol, all enthusiastic rose growers.

The president of the society is C. J. Prior, the honorary secretary, David Reid; the honorary treasurer, E. Stotham, and members of the committee are Judge Lampman, H. R. Beaven, Dr. W. P. Walker, M. R. Jamieson, W. F. Salisbury and Dr. S. Dexter.

To their untiring efforts during the last few days must go much of the credit for the success of this season's show.

J. H. LePage, local optometrist and optician, has returned from a two-weeks' trip through the central B.C. Interior and is now in his new offices above his old location on Yates Street.

Mr. LePage found conditions fair in the districts he visited and is of the opinion that the farmers around such places as Vanderhoof are better off, comparatively, than they imagine themselves to be.

"MIDDLE WATCH" WELL PRESENTED

Naval Dramatic Society Scores Success With Delightful Warship Comedy

Four More Performances Will Be Given This Week at Empire Theatre

From the complications arising out of the stranding of two young and pretty women on a British warship is woven the story of "The Middle Watch," which was presented at the Empire Theatre by the Naval Dramatic Society yesterday evening with a fine grasp of the intriguing comedy situations. This delightful comedy, is the first production of the new dramatic group, and will be repeated to-night, to-morrow night and Saturday-night at 8.15 o'clock, with a matinee Saturday afternoon.

"The Middle Watch," which as a British international film is known to a number of Victorians, makes an entertaining play only under good direction and this James McGrath, of the Empire Theatre and himself a professional actor with much experience, has given it. The behind-the-scenes warship atmosphere and the different characters as individuals and in their relations to the whole naval tradition and tradition strike one as being cast authentically.

This casting must have been no easy matter, though the difficulty was lessened by the fact that the director was working principally with naval material. There is an admiral, a ship's captain, a commander, a captain of marines, a flag lieutenant, a corporal of marines, a plain marine and an able seaman, and with so many differing ranks continually coming into contact a good deal of understanding is necessary to preserve the true atmosphere. This understanding was brought to "The Middle Watch."

ACTING EXCELS

In fact, the acting was generally of so high a standard that it is invidious to single out any one performer. The second scene of the first act, however, which brought together the captain and the commander in the former's cabin discussing what to do with the stranded ladies, seemed to have just the correct understanding and swing and was perhaps better brought out than the opening scene in the captain's lobby. Paymaster 'Lieut.-Commander H. G. Cowlin, as the woman-shy, bachelor captain, gave one of the outstandingly convincing performances of the evening.

Another noteworthy piece of acting opened the second act. Mr. McGrath, as Marine Ogg, was superbly good and the particular scene between him and Lieut.-Commander H. Kingsley as the corporal of marines was wholly delightful. The atmosphere was perfectly caught and the audience responded with loud applause.

Another outstanding section of the play was that in which George Phillips as the admiral took the captain and commander into his confidence and pretended to be so big-hearted about the officers' irregular conduct in not allowing the ladies to be on board, when in reality he was wondering what his wife, Lady Hewitt, would say if she found out he also had been on board

Daily Health Service

VEGETARIANISM

THE CASE FOR AND AGAINST IT

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Just why anyone becomes a vegetarian has never been certainly established. In some instances it seems to be merely a desire to be different from the majority.

On the other hand some people are so sensitive regarding the sight of flesh or blood that they simply cannot eat meat because they see it exposed in the butcher shop. Other vegetarians are actually so concerned about pain caused to the lower animals that they avoid animal food for that reason.

Vegetarians eat milk, eggs and cheese which, of course, are animal products as much as the flesh of the animal.

Dr. Adolphus Abrahams of the Westminster Hospital in London points out that the intestinal tract of man is incapable of manipulating a sufficient amount of vegetable material to insure receipt of the calorie value needed for good health. If, however, cheese, eggs and milk are included, the minimum amount can be had.

On the other hand, there is plenty of evidence that meat protein is superior for tissue building to vegetable protein, regardless of calorie value.

The occasional vegetarian distinguishes himself as an athlete or strong man. This does not prove that everyone who is a vegetarian will be an athlete nor does it indicate in the slightest that other athletes will do well on a similar diet.

There are plenty of notions regarding the training of athletes that have never been established scientifically.

One recent writer on athletics has suggested that long distance runners eat such things as will give power of endurance and increased nerve force, and that hammer throwers take foods and liquids which would make flesh and bone.

Such statements are absurd as there are no such foods with such specific qualities. In the older days of the time of John L. Sullivan athletes never kept in training, but immediately after a match dropped all restrictions and took vast quantities of beer and meats and put on weight.

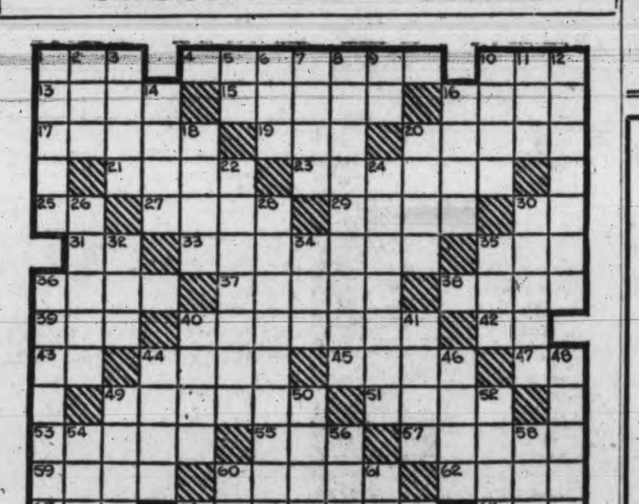

It, therefore, became necessary for them on going into training to adopt the most rigid of diets. This brought about the notion that certain foods were not suitable for athletes.

The argument has been made that the modern sophisticated diet of man leads to gastric ulcer, cancer, Bright's disease and similar disturbance. Recently a study was made of two native tribes—the Kikuyu and the Masai.

The Kikuyu live entirely on vegetables; the Masai eat meat, blood and milk. Neither of these savage tribes averages the European height, but the average height of the meat eater is five inches more than that of the vegetable eaters, and their strength is 50 per cent greater.

It was found, furthermore, that gastric ulcer, rickets and practically every disease, except intestinal obstruction, was more frequent among the vegetable eaters than among the meat eating tribe.

with the ladies that night. Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, of course, made a success of her too brief appearance on the stage.

HEAVY PART

The heaviest female part, that of thequette, was taken with honors by Miss Lucy Bryden, who with Miss Margaret Torrible as Fay Eaton (engaged to the captain of marines, whose accepted invitation to dinner aboard ship caused all the trouble) was stranded for the night because she was persuaded to remain behind as chaperone.

Miss Bryden displayed considerable range in her performance, and was decidedly convincing as the well meaning, sympathetic American flirt, who finally takes the captain's bachelorhood away.

Other characters at random were: Lieut.-Commander W. J. R. Beech as Commander Baddeley, engaged to the admiral's daughter (Miss Dorothy Crump); S. P. Birley as the captain of marines; Miss Vivian Combe, who showed professional skill as the prudish chaperone who is accidentally locked below; Lieut.-Commander F. L. Houghton as Ah Fong, the captain's Chinese "man" with a tendency to comment on things; Mrs. P. L. Houghton as a guest; Lieut. J. C. Hibbard as the flag lieutenant and Able Seaman Dunkley as an able seaman.

Catchy selections of a navy character were finely played by a naval orchestra under the direction of F. H. Hughes. Mus. Bac. The scenery was built and painted under naval supervision. The stage managers were W. M. Jackson, R.C.N., and Lieut. C. R. P. Piers, R.C. W.R., and the publicity manager was Ivan Day.

At the end of the second act, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who is patron of the production, addressed a few words to the audience. His Honor was introduced by Lieut.-Commander Beech, one of the cast.

AT DOMINION

"Forbidden," a brilliant romance in which that new rising screen star, Barbara Stanwyck, is supported by Adolph Menjou and Ralph Bellamy.

is the feature attraction at the Dominion to-day and Friday. The picture on its initial showing in the Rialto Theatre, New York, was greeted with numerous expressions of laudatory comment to the audience. His Honor triumph for that young and successful director, Frank Capra, who also wrote the story from which the film narrative has been adapted. There are highly dramatic moments in the picture forebly portrayed by Miss Stanwyck and Menjou, while the entire story holds intense interest from start to finish. A capable cast contributes largely to the success of the picture.

POLICE WORK

Capitol Picture Depicts Frustration of Law By Political Forces

"The Beast of the City," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's astounding expose of the "inside" of police conditions in United States cities, and one of the most daring dramas ever written for the screen, is the attraction at the Capitol Theatre.

This picture has been called "The Big Parade" of the police in an average city. It tells of their home life, of their problems in enforcing the law and of the ramifications of politics and the underworld. Highlights include a spectacular showing of the workings of police radio alarm and teletype systems. There are sensational police runs and raids, dramatic scenes in police courts, gangster battles and an ingenious attack on a bank truck camouflaged as a furniture van.

Against this dramatic background are shown the machinations of politics and the underworld in controlling the destiny of a large city.

Walter Huston, who won note for his performance in "The Criminal Code," heads the large cast as the police chief who is balked at every step in his efforts to clean up the corruption of his city. Jean Harlow, as the tool of an arch gangster, lures the police chief's brother, a detective, to her side and they outwit and frustrate the police unit, in a final and desperate move, the police chief wins victory for his city.

ACTION DRAMA

AT COLUMBIA

A thrilling tale of the early days of the border country, "South of Santa Fe," now playing on the bill at the Columbia Theatre, is a rapid-fire western picture packed with action.

Featuring Bob Steele, the handsome, hard-riding cowboy star, it is seldom does a screen duo score bigger and better hits with each new vehicle, but James Dunn and Sally Eilers are accomplishing just this feat. Local enthusiasts are acclaiming "Dance Team," their third offering, now showing at the Romano Theatre, as finer than either "Bad Girl" or "Over the Hill." Sidney Landau directed the current production for Fox Films, with Minna Gombell, Ed-

Col. L. H. Hanbury and G. Reynolds of Guardian Assurance Co. in City

British Policy of National Economy Is Having Salutary Effect

Col. Lionel H. Hanbury, C.M.G., and George W. Reynolds, chairman and general manager respectively of the Guardian Assurance Company of London, and directors of its associate, the Guardian Insurance Company of Canada, reached Victoria to-day from Vancouver, after crossing from Vancouver.

Col. Hanbury is the senior partner of Wood, Hanbury, Rhodes and Jackson of London and a director of the Bank of England.

Col. Hanbury and Mr. Reynolds were entertained at luncheon at the Union Club to-day by R. H. B. Ker, of the local financial firm of Ker and Stephenson Limited, local agents for the two companies. During their stay in the city they will be guests at the Empress Hotel.

On the journey which commenced at Quebec over a month ago, Col. Hanbury and Mr. Reynolds have been visiting the companies' agencies right across Canada.

CONFERENCE SHOWN

Both men expressed satisfaction, not only with the outlook in Canada of both their institutions, but also as to the attitude of the many businessmen they have met on the economic situation, the hope of a good harvest having advanced to a confident expectation that they have proceeded from east to west. They further state that this attitude is also typical of the situation in Great Britain, where a determined effort to reduce the national outgo to something less than the national income has undoubtedly having a salutary effect.

Col. Hanbury raised his own battalion in the World War. He is a member of the royal commission on awards to inventors.

SAANICH ASKS HIGHER GRANT

Trustees Seek Greater Government Donation For Erection of New Schools

Saanich is looking forward with confidence to a larger grant than originally expected from the provincial government to help defray the costs of constructions of high schools in the municipality, it was revealed by F. V. Hobbs, chairman of the Saanich School Board, following a conference with Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, Minister of Education and Acting Premier to-day. Along with Trustees A. E. Hull and W. Tomes, and the secretary, Robert Bryden, the chairman waited upon the minister.

Questioned on the interview, Mr. Hobbs stated the cost of erecting the new structures had exceeded the original estimate. The government had promised a certain percentage of the original cost, he said. The purpose of the interview was to secure the same percentage for the higher figure, he said, but declined to state what that amount was.

Mr. Hobbs said the Acting Premier had informed the delegation it would get the same percentage.

Tenders for the roadway, courtyard, sidewalks and drains for the new Mount View High School will be called for immediately. It was decided at a meeting of the Saanich School Board yesterday evening. Plans for the work presented to the trustees, were approved at the meeting.

Arrangements in school legislation studied by Saanich delegates to the Greater Victoria conference could not be applied in Saanich a report to the board.

The report was considered along with a communication from R. F. Sewell, municipal clerk, in which the board was asked for advice on the new legislation and for suggestions as to how the new moves could be made applicable to Saanich. After considering the report, the board declined to suggest any measures.

Amendments to the Schools Act will be under discussion at the next session of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, Nelson this month, the board learned.

SAYS PLUMBING IN CANADA JOY

Miss Ruth Rogers of London Impressed With Canada; Will Write About Country

To Attend Women's Press Conference and Stampede in Calgary on Way East

Miss Ruth Rogers, free lance writer of London, Eng., is in Victoria to-day. She writes for The London Express, and the periodicals, Modern Woman and Good Housekeeping, and is obtaining impressions of Canada.

The people of England do not realize the immensity of this country and its possibilities," said Miss Rogers this morning at the Empress Hotel. "I have been to South America before, but this is the first time I have been to Canada. It is amazing."

The writer said she had been particularly impressed by the modern domestic facilities that are to be found in the little country towns of the prairies.

"Plumbing is a joy in Canada," she said. There are no such conveniences in the flats in Clifford's Inn, just off Fleet Street, where Miss Rogers resides. They were built before the great fire of London.

EXPLORED COUNTRY

The whole of Canada from Montreal to Victoria has been explored by Miss Rogers. She spent two weeks in Montreal, saw the wheat peeping through the ground on the prairies, and was employed by the mountains. She plans to leave here to attend the Canadian Women's Press Club conference in Calgary at the end of the month. She will also cover the big stampede at the Alberta city in July.

This morning Miss Rogers met Major Gordon Smith, of the provincial government publicity department, from whom she secured data which will be incorporated in her articles on British Columbia.

For twenty-two years Mr. Sherratt was a member of the Victoria football team and was regarded as one of the finest outside riders that ever tugged on a pair of boots. He was a member of the Victoria Golf Club.

SLASHING FIRE CAUSES ALARM

Called out by an excited spectator when a slashing fire reached some proportions, the Saanich Fire Department rushed equipment to Cordova Bay yesterday evening but it was not needed.

The fire was on the property of H. W. Naylor, who had delayed burning of several piles of slash until the evening owing to the wind and heat during the day. Six piles blazing at one time attracted considerable attention of campers and residents and an alarm was turned in. The fire did no damage other than the destruction it was intended to do.

PARCEL SNATCHER LOSES APPEAL

Justices Also Turn Down Pleas of Man Who Stole Socks From Vancouver Shop

Patrick Conlin and William J. Ferguson, last of the five convicts to appeal their sentences to the Court of Appeal here this week, were sent back to the Mainland by the court with their appeals dismissed.

Conlin appealed from six months given him by the Vancouver magistrate for taking a parcel out of a parked automobile.

Ferguson appealed against being given six months for appropriating a pair of socks from a Vancouver shop. He said he had bought the socks, but could not remember from what shop. He said he was rendered speechless when the police removed the allegedly stolen socks from him.

"It is absolutely absurd for prisoners to come into this court and give us material that has no bearing on the case," said Chief Justice Macdonald in dismissing the case. "It is a mistake for them to come here and expect to get consideration when they have nothing to support their claims."

The prisoners have been taken under provincial police escort to serve the remainder of their sentences at Oakalla jail.

SLASHING FIRE CAUSES ALARM

Called out by an excited spectator when a slashing fire reached some proportions, the Saanich Fire Department rushed equipment to Cordova Bay yesterday evening but it was not needed.

The fire was on the property of H. W. Naylor, who had delayed burning of several piles of slash until the evening owing to the wind and heat during the day. Six piles blazing at one time attracted considerable attention of campers and residents and an alarm was turned in. The fire did no damage other than the destruction it was intended to do.

PARCEL SNATCHER LOSES APPEAL

Justices Also Turn Down Pleas of Man Who Stole Socks From Vancouver Shop

Patrick Conlin and William J. Ferguson, last of the five convicts to appeal their sentences to the Court of Appeal here this week, were sent back to the Mainland by the court with their appeals dismissed.

Conlin appealed from six months given him by the Vancouver magistrate for taking a parcel out of a parked automobile.

Ferguson appealed against being given six months for appropriating a pair of socks from a Vancouver shop. He said he had bought the socks, but could not remember from what shop. He said he was rendered speechless when the police removed the allegedly stolen socks from him.

Dame Fortune Smiles as Sharkey Takes Heavyweight Crown

First Time Title Has Ever Been Won on a Divided Verdict

Return Match This Fall Might Draw Tremendous Gate

Athletics Will Threaten When Earnshaw Becomes Serious

JACK SHARKEY'S victory over Max Baer for the world heavyweight championship was as sudden a "break" of fortune for him as have been the frustrations previously in his erratic course through the heavyweight ranks. The Sharkey who walked out of the ring with the world title, finally, on a two to one verdict of the officials, was not the convincing fighter of the nights he whipped Harry Wills, Jimmy Maloney and big Primo Carnera. He looked more like the careless fellow who had wasted chances against Tom Heeney, Johnny Risio and Jack Dempsey. He seemed to be biding his time, trusting to luck. He suddenly found it with him as he proclaimed, "The winner and new champion."

The vocal rebuttal to the verdict which went to Sharkey on the vote of Referee "Gunboat" Smith, himself an old-time heavyweight, was the loudest that has been heard in many a moon. Only once before has the heavyweight crown changed hands on a decision and never on a divided verdict. George Tunney captured the crown on points from Dempsey at Philadelphia, in 1926, but there was no argument as to the verdict.

It will take a third contest to convince critics Sharkey is Schmeling's master. This may not be a bad business partnership, inasmuch as the first two Sharkey-Schmeling bouts have surprised everyone by grossing close to $1,250,000. This would be a logical bet for September. Schmeling will get his return bout if the newspapers and fans clamor loud and long enough. If they do meet again Schmeling better knock Sharkey out if he wants to be sure of winning.

The promoters are far better off through Sharkey's victory. If Schmeling had won the bout he would have stood alone at the head of the heavyweights, without a logical contender in sight, outside of possibly Mickey Walker, and fans clamor loud and long enough. And if Sharkey had lost again he would have been through for all time, even though William Muldoon, veteran member of the New York boxing commission, might have tried to boost him as still being a contender. Sharkey has always been a favorite of Muldoon, and when he was little more than a kid it was Muldoon who fought tooth and nail to prevent the German being declared world champion. But, with Sharkey as champion, this promoter has Schmeling as a serious contender. After all the talk and arguing about the raw decision Schmeling received in Tuesday's bout just think what a crowd a return match this fall would draw.

The Philadelphia Athletics will not go anywhere in the American Baseball League this year unless one young man quite clowning and goes to work. That man is George Earnshaw, who can take his baseball or leave it alone. Late George has been leaving it alone. He is a fellow who is not a pitcher in the league (except possibly Lefty Grove or Vernon Gomez) when he wants to be. Yet for weeks at a time he will go through his routine assuming an attitude of studied and comical nonchalance.

Some time ago Grove and Earnshaw were tied with a victory. As Grove continued to run his string, George lapsed into an attitude that might nearly be described as laziness. George was walked once this year. After the inning he said: "I guess that pitcher is trying to get me all tired out running around bases." George has wealthy connections in Philadelphia. He is a social registerite and related to the Quaker City elite. This man who refuses to take his baseball seriously is the same one who won seventy-four games in four years in the majors, and who pitched twenty-five innings in the 1930 world series, allowing only two runs.

Forbes Pitches In Brilliant Fashion; Belcher's Hit Wins

Pitching Ace and Tall Firstsacker Divide Honors in Thrilling 1-to-0 Victory of "Brother Bills"; Holden Gives Good Mound Performance for Cafemen But His own Error Results in Winning Run; Green Mill and Sons of Canada Deadlocked for First Place

Norm Forbes and "Slim" Belcher led the Elks to a thrilling 1-to-0 victory over the Green Mill, league leaders, in the Senior Amateur Baseball League game at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening. Forbes pitched in brilliant fashion to hold the cafemen to five hits, while Belcher, elongated first baseman, crashed out a timely double in the fifth inning to score McConnell from second base with the winning run. The game witnessed by a packed stand saw the players turn in a first-class exhibition.

KITTENS HERE ON SATURDAY

Famous Tacoma Nine Will Meet Victoria All-stars in Pair of Fixtures

Vince Duckwitz Bringing Formidable Club; Local Team Not Selected Yet

The afternoon clash will get started at 2:30 o'clock, with the twilight game commencing at 4:45 o'clock. "Albie" McGregor will handle both fixtures.

The Kittens, who are making their fourth appearance here, are bringing over a formidable club. Their pitching staff will include George Delano, Charlie Wray and Dick Wasmund. Pot catching duties they will have Buzz Elkins, who established quite a name for himself last year in the Timber League.

CITY BEATEN BY ESQUIMALT

Dockers, Victoria Champs, Down Connaught Cup Team in Benefit Game

Scotty Stewart and Clyde Nicol Score Two Goals in Second Half

Two goals in the second half, one each from the boots of Scotty Stewart and Clyde Nicol, gave Esquimalt, city champions, a 2 to 0 victory over the Victoria City Connaught Cup team in the benefit football game for Dave Stewart at Heywood Avenue grounds yesterday evening.

De Costa's brilliant work in the net for the Dockers played a big part in their win. The City went on the attack from the start and pressed hard for the first ten minutes. De Costa was tested several times but proved safe.

Half way through the period Esquimalt swung into action, keeping the ball well in their opponents' territory until ten minutes from the interval, when the City swung back on the attack.

The City tried hard for the rest of the game but De Costa proved safe between the Dockers' posts.

Referee and the teams were:

Esquimalt—De Costa; Marshall, Joe Watt; Stoffer, Bob Stewart, Sweeney; Neil, Scotty Stewart, John Watt, Wagland and Williams.

All-stars—Chalmers, Crowe, Leggett, McKinnon, Gibbons, Teifer, Campbell, Price, Dorrington, McBay and Murray.

MARSHALL WINNER

Portland, June 23.—Everett Marshall, Junia, Colo., defeated Nick Elch, New York, in two straight falls in their wrestling match here yesterday evening. Marshall weighed 216 pounds and Elch 200.

TUXIS SPORTS LEADERS NAMED

Averages Above Marks of Last Year in National Athletic Contests

Competitors in the National athletic contests for Tuxis and Trail Ranger groups, conducted here under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. a week ago last Saturday, were, on the average, well ahead of the field of last year. It was revealed in the list of highest scorers in the six-event track and field meet issued to-day.

Edward Sage, young Trail Ranger of the Camosun group, scored highest in the meet. He made a total of 559. Although the leader this year, he was below the individual total of 589 scored by Ken Fleming last season.

William Langley was second in the individual standing, three points behind the leader in class one. He captured individual honors in the class three.

All but one section were above the 500 mark.

Sixty-five competed in the contests and showed exceptionally keen competition in the various classes.

GROUP LEADERS

The highest individual scores made during the meet in the five different groupings follow:

Class 1—Edward Sage, Camosun Trail Rangers, 559.

Class 2—Taro Yoneda, Veritas, 505.

Class 3—William Langley, Falcons (Met), 506.

Class 4—Bill Stirrup, Bear Cats, 536.

Class 5—Tony Simpson, Bear Cats, 578.

Cricketers To Name "Rep" Team

Members of the Victoria Wednesday Cricket League will gather in the Tillamook Club on Saturday evening to select the mid-week team to play Vancouver on the mainland on July 1.

The meeting will start at 7:30 o'clock.

ROCHESTER IN CLOSE VICTORY

Score Five Runs in Last Two Innings to Nose Out Baltimore 9 to 8

When it comes to putting plenty of excitement into a few ball games, Baltimore Orioles, current leaders of the International League, and Rochester Red Wings, champions for the last four years, seem to be out for the prize.

In every one of their nine clashes so far they have gone in for free hitting and scoring and usually for close games.

By pounding out a 9 to 8 decision yesterday, Rochester gain a 2 to 1 edge in the current series. Red Birds came from behind with five runs in the last two innings to win.

The victory failed to lift Rochester into the first division as Montreal Royals gained an even break in a double-header with Jersey City and remained a half game ahead. Big Owell Ripple's long homer helped Royals to a 4 to 2 victory in the opener, but Jersey City came back behind Eddie Fipras to win the second, 6 to 0.

Reading showed Toronto deeper into the cellar with a 3 to 1 triumph in a mound duel under the lights.

MATCH PLAY WILL START

Gorge Vale Golfers Continue Play Sunday in Annual Club Championship

Sharkey More Unpopular Than Ever Says Dempsey

Los Angeles, June 23.—Disapproval of the decision which transferred the heavyweight title from Max Schmeling to Jack Sharkey was expressed by Jack Dempsey, former champion.

"As I get it," said Dempsey, who beat Sharkey in 1927, "Sharkey was pasted good. The verdict does not do him a bit of good and it does the German no harm. I believe Sharkey emerges more unpopular than ever. Not that it is his fault, but the experts seem to be unanimous in stating the wrong man's hand was raised."

Andrews Stars as Suburbanites Defeat Five C's Handily

Hudson's Bays Have Easy Time Against Nine-man Victoria Team

Fine batting by Andrews, who scored seventy-nine before losing his wicket to Attwell, featured the victory of Saanich over the Five C's in yesterday's main mid-week cricket match.

In the other game, Hudson's Bays defeated Victoria with the score standing at 96 to 24. Victoria fielded but nine men.

Saanich's total was 216 against 120 for the chummen.

Besides Andrews, Grant with thirty-nine and Porter with twenty-seven, batted well for the suburban team. Comley, Petch and Slocumb with thirty-two and twenty respectively, were top scorers for the chummen.

Hansen dominated the Hudson's Bays-Victoria match. He took four wickets for thirteen runs in the bowling list, and then led his side at batting with twenty-seven. Alexander was the leading bowler for Victoria.

Brilliant Bowling And Play In Field Whips Australians

All-star Team of Mainland League Runs Up Score of 147, Batting Fifteen, and Then Dismiss Tourists for Forty-two; Richardson, Visiting Skipper, Has Duck; Rivers, Scott and Ivamy Bowl Well for Home Club

Vancouver, June 23.—Brilliant bowling combined with smart fielding, following an innings that had netted them 147 runs against the Australian bowling, enabled an all-star aggregation of the Mainland Cricket League to administer defeat to the touring cricketers from Australia here yesterday. The Mainlanders, batting fifteen men, ran up a score of 147 and the Australian eleven replied with 129 runs. It was the first game lost by the visitors in Canada.

Five Vancouver players reached double figures against the bowling of Mailey, Kippax, McCabe and Fleetwood-Smith. Scott and Read, opening the innings, made a formidable stand, the former securing fifteen before being bowled by Kippax, while Read batted out a forty-one, being caught by McCabe off Mailey. Dobbie followed with thirty-one. Ivamy secured seventeen and Broadfoot scored twenty-one not out.

BRADMAN CAUGHT OUT

For the Australians, Don Bradman, after hitting up forty-two in rapid order, was caught out at deep point by Read. Kippax, nineteen; Rife, sixteen; Mailey, eleven, and Carter, seven, were the other chief contributors.

The local attack against the Australians was a feature and Cornstalk batters retired quickly. Rivers scored three wickets for sixty-one runs. Scott for eighteen, Ivamy three for fourteen and Peters one for thirty.

The Australians were playing their final match here to-day against another all-star team. To-night they leave for the east, traveling direct to Toronto, where they will play for four days, starting June 29.

Although rain fell in the early morning, it cleared up around noon and it was possible to start play at 12 o'clock, while the sun came out brilliantly in the afternoon. Mailey did not play during the morning, Carney fielding for him, but he turned out after lunch and in a deadly spell of bowling took eight wickets for thirty-five runs, while Kippax took the ball from Ivamy, while Kippax relieved McCabe five runs later at the other end. Read cut Kippax beautifully for four off the last ball of the first over, but with the total at thirty-one Scott hit over a good length ball from the same bowler and had his wicket shattered.

REACHES BOUNDARY

Rivers joined Read and the latter drove two successive balls from Kippax to the boundary, but with only forty-eight on the board Read called for his partner for an almost impossible run and Richardson shied the wicket down from mid-on. Dobbie stayed with Read until lunch, at which stage the score was forty-nine for two wickets, even to the limit. A large entry from the mainland and Washington is also expected.

This club staged a good two-point show last year, and it is anticipated a "three point" will be secured this year. Many handsome trophies and cups, and a liberal amount of cash will be included in the prize list.

Fractional Losses At Winnipeg After Early Bull Movement

Winnipeg, June 23.—An early movement toward higher price levels was not sustained in the wheat pit today and values sagged to fractionally lower levels. Prices at the close were 1/2 to 1/4 lower.

July closed 1/2 to 1/4, while October and December each declined 1/4 to 1/2, and 5/8, respectively.

The market opened higher on local buying in sympathy with higher quotations at Liverpool. Support, however, soon petered out and prices slipped back to the low levels where they held to the close.

Some scattered export trade was reported worked overnight but it was of small amount. It was a dull market throughout.

Reports were received of further damage to crops by grasshoppers in Minnesota. Sections of Manitoba and Saskatchewan also were included in the report.

The world's wheat supply in May decreased 48,939,000 bushels compared with 69,914,000 bushels in April and 44,124,000 in May, 1931. Canada's decrease was 19,900,000 bushels and that of the United States 14,000,000 bushels.

Inquiry for high grades of northern wheat featured the cash wheat trade. Spreads on the active grades were about 1/2 higher. There was no improvement noted in coarse grains and values there moved within a narrow margin.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, June 23.—Wheat: There was no feature to the market today unless it was the fact that offerings were extremely light. On the other hand, the buying power was very thin. Trade volume extremely small with a little local and scapling business going on. Cables were mostly 1/4 to 1/2 lower and Chicago was acting much the same.

Export sales were again very disappointing, a few scattered orders being reported probably around 150,000 bushels in all positions. There was very little change in the cash wheat market, a little shipping demand for certain grades being reported but buyers were not keen and only small lots were changing hands. Spreads were mostly unchanged but No. 1 hard was inclined to be a little easier. There was no improvement in the flour situation.

There were again a few reports of just being discovered in North Dakota but this is not unusual. So far no damage has been reported and much demands on the weather next two or three weeks. Grasshoppers in the little damage so far but have attacked some grain field in southeastern Manitoba. Generally speaking wheat conditions at the moment are excellent both sides of the border and a potential big crop would appear to be in the making.

In the southwest harvesting operations are again under way and some very small yields are being reported and farmers are said to be plowing what under, as it will not pay to harvest what is so small. Black Sea wheat shipments this week are 320,000 bushels with nothing from Russia. Showers from light to moderately heavy were fairly general over Saskatchewan and Alberta the past twenty-four hours country marketings Wednesday in the west were 627,000 vs. 367,000 year ago.

Winnipeg closed 1/2 to 1/4 lower; barley 1/2 to 1/4 lower and 7/8 to 1/2 higher to 1/4 lower; flax 1/2 to 1/4 lower; Liverpool due 1/2 higher to 1/4 lower on Winnipeg.

WILL THRILL AIR SHOW

Here is "Hal" Wilson, Aero Club of B.C. instructor and former Victoria resident, who is leader of the B.C. Air Tour, which will stage an aerial show at the Gordon Head airport on Monday afternoon, July 4, at 5.30 o'clock. Mr. Wilson will give an exhibition of individual aerobatics and this photograph shows him in one of the thrilling evolutions which he will perform. His machine has been especially fitted for inverted flying and spectators will see him hanging head down as the plane speeds across the sky. There will be at least fourteen planes in the B.C. Air Tour which will arrive from Courtenay on Sunday, July 3, in order to give Victoria residents an opportunity to take passenger flights. Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are in charge of arrangements and have flight tickets for sale.

B.C. SLASHES RELIEF COSTS

Two Thousand Getting Orders to Leave Camps; Non-residents Must Go

All non-British Columbians are to be turned out of provincial relief camps and taken off relief rolls. They will be told to go back home to their own provinces. Orders have been given to start clearing relief camps to-day of all inmates from outside the province. Nearly 2,000 in the camps are to-day receiving their orders to march on.

At the same time, British Columbians receiving relief must tighten their belts as relief for them is to be cut to the bone, with only those in absolutely dire need being given relief and camp shelter.

Dismissal orders are going out for a large number of political appointees who have been carried on the relief payrolls as officials operating in various capacities of supervising and inspecting.

These moves were decided upon at meetings of the provincial cabinet under Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance. It was also decided to have an immediate check-up by accountants of the government to find out what its actual costs of relief are.

The moves are reported to be in anticipation of recommendations to be made to the government in the handling of its affairs by the Kidd committee, which is due to report within the next few days.

The cabinet unemployment committee, in issuing its new orders, explained that last year out of a total registration of more than 70,000 men in British Columbia as unemployed, between 11,000 and 12,000 were from other provinces, having arrived in British Columbia within twelve months of the time of their registration.

The committee said an absolute stop was to be put to the westward flow of unemployed persons this autumn to take advantage of the milder climatic conditions on the coast.

Vancouver, June 23.—A Kamloops dispatch to the province says: "Instructions were received by the provincial resident engineer yesterday from Victoria that from to-day transients originating from any point outside this district must be told to return to their point of origin. Already the wheels of the new mechanism are moving, and it is expected there will be a big rush on freight trains in the next few days."

The many friends of Miss Nora Couchman, Goldstream, will regret to hear that she is a patient in the Royal Jubilee Hospital, having undergone an operation for appendicitis.

LEASE LARGE GAS STATION

Imperial Oil Property on Waterfront to Be Enlarged Under New Management

A year after its completion, the palatial Imperial Oil service station overlooking the Causeway has been leased to W. G. Blackman and comsiderable improvements are planned to this fine piece of property. A. C. Molesworth has been appointed service manager.

The big gas station, which was constructed under the direction of E. D. La Lachur and is designed to supply dual service to automobiles and boats, is reckoned one of the finest owned by the Imperial Oil Company on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Blackman, originally from London, has been a resident of Vancouver for the last few years. Mr. Molesworth is well known here and enlisted with the Fifth Regiment for service overseas.

To build up the marine side of the service station, a concrete pier will be built at the waterline by the new management. The pier will be supplied with long floats and craft of all descriptions will be given access. This service will supply a long felt want. It is later planned to offer a similar service for airplanes.

DECORATIVE SCHEME

On the terrace overlooking the harbor refreshments will be served to patrons sitting at the benches. A striking decorative scheme with plants, shrubs and trees has been arranged by the new management. W. H. A. Freese, landscape architect, has been placed in charge of this work and it is expected the result will be one of unusual beauty.

A salient feature of the big station is the exceptional facilities for storage. A winding runway takes the car down to a big cement floor below street level, capable of holding approximately eighty cars, 14,000 square feet in extent. A special service will be offered business men of the city, the cars being called for, safely parked all day, and returned on a phone call.

The service offered is of the highest standard; four electrically operated gas pumps being installed on the road level. The new management has retained the original staff, headed by F. Finlayson, and the complete equipment enables the finest work to be done. The latest lubrication equipment, specially designed for the later models of cars, arrives day-day.

These changes, which will be started immediately, are expected to be completed in time for the tourist trade, and will add materially to the already outstanding attractiveness of the Inner Harbor waterfront. Special facilities will be offered the visitor, who will be able to get complete tourist information at the station.

TO GIVE ADAGIO DANCES IN REVUE

Probably no form of dancing delights the onlooker more than adagio. Adagio demands, as no other dancing, extreme physical dexterity and agility, perfect balance and keen mental alertness to express the smooth, rhythmic motion of posing from one difficult and ofttime daring posture to another that makes this dancing so stimulating to the spectator. It is because the adagio emphasizes these qualities, valuable to any dancer, that Miss Florence Clough uses it so extensively in her academy and in the dance revue to be given at the Empire Theatre next Monday. The adagio will be prominently featured.

Business Man—What do you do with all those pictures you paint?
Artist—I sell them, sir.
Business Man—Well, name your terms, my man; I've been looking for a salesman like you for years.

Ordinary oils are dark in color because of high carbon, gum and sludge content.

The New Marvelube is clean, clear, bright golden colored—you can see through it. It's all oil.

AS DIFFERENT FROM ORDINARY OILS AS DAY FROM NIGHT

Look at the New Marvelube. Clean, clear, golden. As different from ordinary oils as day is from night. By an entirely new Super-Refining process it has been freed from those properties which cause carbon, gum and sludge. This process was developed, and is owned exclusively by Imperial Oil Limited. No other refiner can give you oil so pure. And now that you can get this new, pure oil don't you think it worth your while to use it—especially when it costs no more? It means a clean, free-running engine with no gummy, sticky deposits. It means better lubrication, greater economy, less wear and lower upkeep costs.

Whether you change oil every 500 miles or every 2500 miles you will get better results with the New Marvelube. Most automobile manufacturers recommend changing oil every 500 miles because oil gets dirty in use and accumulates road grit and other injurious substances.
